The 10th and 11th traffic deaths of 1961 in Magic Valley occurred March 18 as result of an accident in Twin Falls county.

Agreement on Date of Arms Talks Is Seen

WASHINGTON, March 18 (AP) — Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson indicated today this country and the Soviet Union are approaching agreement on a date for resumption of disarmament negotiations. Stevenson told reporters, after a meeting with President Kennedy and top diplomatic officials that he hopes to make some progress on other aspects of disarmament this week.

The question of the date, Stevenson said, is one of the aspects of the discussions that we are clear on than some of the others."

Secretary of State Dean Rusk also attended the two-hour White House meeting.

The conversations, Stevenson said, ranged over some of the problems that are pending in the United Nations. They did not go into it specifically to the rising crisis in Laos, Stevenson said but added that he expected that more might be said about that subject later.

Good Report

NEW YORK, March 18 (AP)—G. Mennen Williams, assistant secretary of state for African affairs, returned today from a month-long tour of African countries where he said he found "a great reserve of good will for America."

Williams told a news conference at New York's Idlewild airport that during his 24,000-mile tour of 11 African countries, he found African leaders know and have confidence in President Kennedy."

Livestock Industry Honors 7 Area Men

Seven Magic Valley men prominent in the livestock industry were honored at the annual Hall of Fame banquet of the Southern Idaho agriculture industry held Saturday evening at the Turf club in Twin Falls. Dale Livingston, Washington, Ia., known as "America's funniest farmer," was featured speaker.

John A. Carver, jr., assistant secretary of the interior, spoke briefly, and John Breckenridge, Twin Falls chairman, was master of ceremonies.

Named to the Hall of Fame were J. W. Robertson and S. W. (Doc) McClure, both Gooding; R. J. Hawes, Twin Falls; Mont A. Johnson, Richfield; Otto Florence, jr., Twin Falls; Henry C. Jones, Eden, and Loren Lewis, Burley.

Carver briefly discussed his attitude toward his job. He pledged himself to correct errors he previously had noted in public land administration. He said his department must know "almost as much about the cattle business as you people"—referring to his audience, nearly all cattlemen—to administer grazing rights policy correctly. In addition, the government must not take unfair advantage of its power, he said.

The cattleman, on the other hand, must realize that government must sometimes override local interests to "preserve its sources for the future," Carver said. For this reason, a "hard, firm policy" must be developed, he added, noting that marginal agricultural developments of public lands have been barred by President Kennedy, and the President has ordered a new general policy on user payments for public land use, to be drawn up within the next 90 days.

All new Hall of Fame members honored at the banquet were present to receive their plaques except the late J. W. Robinson, whose wife accepted the plaque in his behalf. Each was introduced by a speaker who gave a brief highlight of the man's career.

Fred Brailsford, who presented the award to Mrs. Robertson in behalf of the Idaho State Federation of Labor. He was secretary for many years of the apprentice-training program.

Surviving besides his widow are three sons, Fred Hendricks, San Leandro, Calif.; Manley Hendricks, Kansas City, Kans., and Bud Hendricks, San Diego, Calif.; two daughters, Mrs. Donna Smock, Coeur d'Alene, and Mrs. Peggy Humphrey, Twin Falls; two sisters, Mrs. Harry Musgrave, Twin Falls, and Mrs. Nora McDougal, Fresno, Calif., and 12 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

He was preced in death by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Hendricks, and a brother, George Hendricks.

Funeral services will be held at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Twin Falls mortuary chapel. Concluding rites will be held at Twin Falls cemetery.

CHARGE ISSUED

TOKYO, March 18 (AP)—Communist China charged American military planes violated Chinese air space near Swabue this morning and near Pinghai in the afternoon. Peiping radio quoted a foreign ministry spokesman as saying he was authorized to issue China's 175th warning against such "military provocation."

Death Claims W. Hendricks At Age of 74

William L. Hendricks, 74, 311 Ash street, Twin Falls city plumbing inspector for 12 years, died about 12:50 a.m. Saturday at Magic Valley Memorial hospital after a two-month-long illness.

He was born Dec. 7, 1886, at Falmouth, Ky., moving to Twin Falls in 1904. He married Grace E. Rock in Twin Falls, October, 1912. He attended school here and later with his father operated the first blacksmith shop in Twin Falls.

Mr. Hendricks worked as a plumber and retired as city plumbing inspector Jan. 1.

He was a member of the Eagle lodge for 45 years, the Twin Falls historical society, financial secretary and treasurer of the Plumbers and Steam Fitters union local No. 392, since 1949, and was a member of the Idaho State Federation of Labor. He was secretary for many years of the apprentice-training program.

Surviving besides his widow are three sons, Fred Hendricks, San Leandro, Calif.; Manley Hendricks, Kansas City, Kans., and Bud Hendricks, San Diego, Calif.; two daughters, Mrs. Donna Smock, Coeur d'Alene, and Mrs. Peggy Humphrey, Twin Falls; two sisters, Mrs. Harry Musgrave, Twin Falls, and Mrs. Nora McDougal, Fresno, Calif., and 12 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

He was preced in death by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Hendricks, and a brother, George Hendricks.

Funeral services will be held at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Twin Falls mortuary chapel. Concluding rites will be held at Twin Falls cemetery.

Small Margin Foreseen for New Program

WASHINGTON, March 18 (AP)—President Kennedy apparently will be able to muster thin majorities in both houses of Congress for most of the controversial bills in his New Frontiers program.

But the President probably will have to use every tactic known to modern politicians to run some of his proposals past the bristling guns of a Republican-Southern Democratic coalition still full of fight.

The senate's vote 44-42 last week to kill an amendment by Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D., Va., to the emergency unemployment compensation measure indicated to administration leaders how uncomfortably narrow their margin is in that body.

They were similarly concerned about a 209-202 squeaker by which

News Meet Will Be Junked Twice

WASHINGTON, March 18 (AP)—President Kennedy will hold a news conference at 4 p.m. Eastern standard time Wednesday and then skip such conferences for two weeks, the White House said today.

On one of the ensuing Wednesdays, he plans to fly to Palm Beach, Fla., for a week's sojourn over Easter.

On the next Wednesday, he will be consulting back in Washington with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

There will be no live television or radio coverage of Wednesday's session with reporters.

Senator Reports Rescinding Of Mixed Grain Rule Official

The mixed grain ruling of 25 per cent wheat officially was rescinded at 5:30 p.m. EST Friday, Sen. Frank Church stated in a telephone call to the Times-News Friday.

The situation was "nip and tuck" and it took a personal visit to President Kennedy's office to get the order officially rescinded, Sen. Church reported. Apparently a news release published in Thursday's Times-News precipitated the situation and forced it to a head. However, the order was not officially rescinded until Friday afternoon, the senator noted.

Don Fredericksen, Gooding, who has been in close touch with negotiations on changing the regulation, reported to the Times-News Wednesday night, that James Ralph, assistant secretary of agriculture, had telephoned him from Washington to advise him a decision had been made to rescind the order.

Fredericksen said Ralph told him it was all right to notify area farmers of the change and added that official notification of the change would follow.

In his telephone conversation Friday Senator Church said no such decision had been made

She Knows

BURLINGAME, Calif., March 18 (UP)—Mrs. John Hillyard was sacking potatoes in a self-service grocery store when a woman beside her remarked something about how "many people we mothers have to feed."

Then she added, somewhat apologetically: "I'm expecting my 12th child. I suppose you are going to ask, 'How do you do it?'"

"No-o-o, no," said Mrs. Hillyard. "I know just how you feel about that question.

"I already have 13."

2 Wendell Girls Killed In One-Car Crash Near Buhl, Mother Critical

BUHL, March 18—Two daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver E. Phillips, Wendell, were killed instantly and their mother is in critical condition at Magic Valley Memorial hospital as the result of a one-car accident about 5:20 p.m. Saturday on the Clear Lakes road about two-tenths of a mile north of East Main street, Buhl. Dead were Marjorie Phillips, 12, and Marilyn Phillips, 21 months, only passengers in the 1955 Chevrolet driven by their mother. According to State Patrolman Richard Burns, Mrs. Phillips lost control of the car when she momentarily looked down at one of the little girls. The car, which was going north, ran off the right side of the road, dropped into a six-foot deep ditch where the vehicle smashed into a galvanized steel culvert.

A witness driving behind Mrs. Phillips said her car was traveling between 35 and 40 miles per hour and the vehicle "just wandered off the road."

Officers and the motor of the Phillips' auto was flattened into the windshield. The car was demolished.

Mrs. Phillips underwent surgery Saturday night for deep lacerations above her right eye. She also received a fractured right arm. Hospital attendants said full extent of her other injuries were not known.

She was taken to the hospital by Albertson ambulance. Cooperating in the investigation were Sheriff James H. Benham, Deputy Curtis Pryor, Buhl, and Patrolman Burns.

The deaths are the 10th and 11th traffic fatalities this year for Magic Valley, compared to only two at this date last year. The third traffic death in 1960 occurred March 25, also a fatalities for the first and sixth for Twin Falls county. The last fatality in the county occurred Tuesday when Mrs. Mary Hanks, route 4, Hansen, was killed in a shattering two-car collision one mile east and two miles south of Kimberly.

Bodies of the two Phillips children were taken to route Meservey mortuary, Wendell, where funeral services are pending.

Marjorie Phillips attended Wendell grade school.

In addition to their parents, the girls are survived by two bothers, Larry and Dicky, both high school students at Wendell; maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Barney, Boise, and paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Phillips, Boise.

Secretary Rusk, Gromyko Hold 5-Hour Talk on Laotian Crisis

WASHINGTON, March 18 (AP)—In an extraordinary five-hour conference, Secretary of State Dean Rusk sought the cooperation of Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko today to bring an early end to the civil war in Laos. Apparently he failed, however, to make any immediate progress toward ending the Laotian crisis. A joint statement said simply that the two foreign ministers hope their discussion "will lead to a better mutual understanding of the positions and attitudes of both governments." The statement gave no hint whatever of any progress toward an agreement but spoke rather of further consideration of outstanding problems.

It did not specify particular problems, but it was learned that the major emphasis of the long conference was on the Laotian crisis, and the wording of the agreed statement clearly showed a lack of progress in narrowing the differences.

Though Laos was the most immediately critical issue discused, it was by no means the only one. Others reportedly included a variety of United Nations problems, disarmament, the Congo, and the Berlin situation. All these have a bearing on the possibility of some future meeting between President Kennedy and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

The Rusk-Gromyko conference began over a luncheon table in a state department dining room shortly after 1 o'clock and ended in Rusk's office a few minutes after 6 p.m.

Outwardly, at least, it appeared to have been harmonious.

Both men exchanged pleasantries before the talk began and again when it ended. They talked briefly with reporters when the discussions broke up, but provided little information.

Gromyko sidestepped questions with a remark that a joint statement would be issued. The statement also turned out to be couched in very general terms.

Pro-Red Offensive Nears Laos Capital

VIENTIANE, Laos, March 18 (AP) — Pro-communist Pathet Lao rebels, their 11-day offensive still rolling, have artillery within 22 miles of the royal capital of Luang Prabang, an informed military source said today. Seasoned rebels, some of them communist-indoctrinated, have advanced 36 miles north along the Queen Astrid highway since capturing Sala Phou Khoun road junction, the source said. But their two 105-millimeter howitzers still are 44 winding road miles from King Savang Vathana's royal city and still are out of range. The 105-is considered effective at 10-12 miles.

Premier Boun Oum, his poorly-trained, battle-shy troops unable to stem the offensive, has shaken up the front-line command. More changes are expected.

Energetic Col. Kouprasith Abhay has taken over field command in the Nong Kassy area.

The Luang Prabang military commander, Col. Bouteng, nephew of a cabinet minister, is reported due to be replaced.

The rebels are thought to have thrown 6,000 to 10,000 troops into the central Laos offensive, which gained quick success March 7 when Sala Phou Khun road junction fell. Against these well-trained mountain and jungle fighters, the government has employed 20,000 troops.

Western experts consider only one in five of the government troops trained in even the rudiments of combat. Their leadership leaves much to be desired. Capping this is the soldier's natural peaceful tendencies, stemming in part from their Buddhist religion.

Fairfield Sets Music Clinic On March 25

FAIRFIELD, March 18—Approximately 800 Magic Valley junior high school students will participate in a music clinic in Fairfield Saturday, March 25. The all-day session will culminate with a concert at 6 p.m. in the high school.

Earle McKever, superintendent of music at Nampa, will direct the bands and James Anderson, director of vocal music at Boise high school will work with the high school chorus. Elmer Thomas, assistant director of music at the College of Idaho, Caldwell, will direct the mixed chorus. The orchestra director will be announced later.

The groups will meet in the LDS church, the grade school annex, the Community church and the high school gymnasium.

Schools participating will be Kimberly, Buhl, Shoshone, Twin Falls, Wendell, Castleford, Valley, Jerome, Hailey, Filer, Fairfield and Burley. Students will register at 9 a.m.

Because of limited facilities in Fairfield, students are requested to bring a sack lunch for their noon meal. The evening meal is being prepared by local groups for students who pay in advance for their respective meals.

A luncheon and meeting for the directing personnel and music teachers is being arranged at the Community church.

The massed band, orchestra, girls chorus and mixed chorus will rehearse throughout the day in preparation for the evening concert.

Jackpot

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 19 (AP)—An ancient radio, donated to charity, played a cash tune twice for William Green.

While he and a companion were carrying it from the donor's home, a billfold, containing $2,600 tumbled out. They returned the money to the woman and got $1 each.

En route to his office, Green heard a thud in the truck's rear, checked, and found a paper bag. It held $6,840 and old radio tubes.

This time, when Green showed he'd found the money, he got a $300 reward.

Space Capsule Performances Termed Good

WASHINGTON, March 18 (AP)—An unmanned Mercury space capsule was shot 40,000 feet above the Virginia coast today in its most punishing test yet. It came through with flying parachutes.

"If it were a manned flight, a man could have come through it satisfactorily," said William H. Bland, assistant chief of the Mercury space task group.

The shot at Wallops Island, Va., was to test the escape mechanism for the space capsule under the worst possible conditions. It may be the last test needed before a similar capsule carries a man on a 125-mile-high, 200-mile-long flight from Cape Canaveral, Fla., down the Atlantic range. After that comes an attempt to put a man in orbit around the Earth.

The capsule was lofted by a Little Joe rocket, a squat 25-foot booster. It soared to about 40,000 feet, where it detached from the rocket with its escape rockets, designed to save an astronaut's life if something goes wrong in a future launching.

The capsule broke out parachutes and floated down to the Atlantic, landing 14 miles beyond where it was expected because of high winds. The trip took 23 minutes. The capsule was picked up by a navy ship within an hour.

Bland said the only thing abnormal was that both the capsule's parachutes opened at once.

Swiss Parley Set On Algerian War

TUNIS, Tunisia, March 18 (AP)—French and Algerian rebel emissaries will meet secretly Wednesday in Switzerland to set the stage for formal negotiations to end the bitter Algerian rebellion, informants reported today.

In the French view, the forthcoming talks will look to a peace of "neither victor nor vanquished," guaranteeing the people of Algeria political self-determination in line with President Charles de Gaulle's policy for the war-weary area.

It now is assumed in nearly all quarters that self-determination eventually means independence for Algeria under the leadership of the rebel National Liberation Front (FLN).

Ex-Employe Answers Aide On Dismissal

NAMPA, March 18 (AP)—An employee of the Nampa state school who was dismissed this week by Supt. Dr. Erwin Sage, said today that the superintendent had been unwilling to listen to his side of the story.

Gwen J. Ramsey, who said he has been employed by the school for six years, was fired Wednesday for actions which Dr. Sage said were unbecoming of a member of the institution.

Dr. Sage charged Ramsey with agitating among employes to encourage them to lodge complaints about the institution with the attorney general's office.

Earlier this month, Nampa attorney Bruce Robinson investigated the school on orders of Atty. Gen. Frank L. Benson. Robinson then issued a report in which he listed a wide range of irregularities at the institution.

Sage accused Ramsey of being a party to the dissemination of information which is intended to degrade your fellow employes at this institution in the eyes of the public, to produce emotional upsets in the minds of the relatives of residents, and to challenge the authority of those constituted to administer this institution."

In a prepared statement, Ramsey said, "The majority of em-

150 Pints of Blood Is T.F. Quota for Bloodmobile Visit

The American Red Cross bloodmobile will visit Twin Falls from 2 to 6 p.m. Monday at the American Legion hall with the goal set at 150 pints, reports Dr. Harvey Van Wieren, chairman of the blood program for the Twin Falls chapter.

"Recent blood use has exceeded normal usage both for emergencies and gamma globulin usage," according to Dr. Van Wieren. "The chapter is very badly in need of replacements by friends and relatives of persons who have used large amounts of blood either in the Twin Falls area or in hospitals away from the Twin Falls area where the blood has been replaced by the Boise regional blood center."

He stressed that any persons not suffering from any respiratory infection are admissable as donors.

"Many women feel that they aren't acceptable as donors," Dr. Van Wieren added, "but actually their blood is frequently of higher quality than men."

Driver Fined $147 in Buhl After Mishap

John P. Morgan, 53, Dillon, Mont., was fined $147 and 83 costs when he appeared Saturday morning before Buhl Justice of the Peace William Wingster on a charge of drunk driving.

Morgan was arrested by State Patrolman Richard Burns after a one-car accident at 6 p.m. Friday two and one-fourth miles east of Buhl on highway 30. He was driving his 1953 Mercury too fast to negotiate the Cedar crossing curve and the car skidded for some 150 feet, stopping on the railroad tracks, detaining an eastbound train. The train was detained until a wrecker removed the car from the tracks.

Police said Morgan was driving 60-miles per hour in a 25-mile zone. He received no injuries and damages to the car were estimated at $200. Deputy Sheriff Curtis Pryor assisted in the investigation.

Mrs. Jean Sullivan, Jerome, was fined $100 on a drunk driving charge and $5 for driving on an expired license Friday by Jerome Police Judge Fred Eberhardt.

Mrs. Sullivan was arrested Tuesday night in Jerome by Jerome officials. She was released on her own recognizance after taking a blood test at St. Benedict's hospital. The results of the test was 280.

Edward Burgner, 60, Jerome, was cited for failing to yield the right of way after an accident at 7:35 a.m. Saturday in Jerome.

The auto Burgner was driving collided with a car driven by Bobby T. Barker, 17, Jerome. No one was injured.

Damages were estimated at $150 to the Burgner car and $70 to the Barker auto. Jerome city police issued the citation.

A 1950 Chevrolet driven by Rountree collided with a 1955 Ford sedan driven by William H. Slimp, 51, 1325 Poplar avenue, Twin Falls.

Damage was estimated at $75 to the Chevrolet and $400 to the Ford.

Johnny L. Hansen, 15, Hazelton, was cited for making an improper turn by Twin Falls police after he was involved in a truck-car accident Saturday.

A 1947 Ford truck driven by Hansen collided with a 1959 Pontiac driven by Floyd Lincoln, 50, route two, Twin Falls, at Seventh street and Second avenue south at 11:18 a.m. Saturday.

There was approximately $90 damage to the Pontiac and $25 damage to the truck.

Damage to the Plymouth was estimated at $400 to the left front. Damage to the Chevrolet was estimated at $250. Deputy Sheriff Howard Platt investigated.

Human Airlift Under Way in Formosa Area

TAIPEI, Formosa, March 19 (Sunday) (AP)—A massive human airlift intended to ease tension in Southeast Asia was in full swing today, ferrying Nationalist Chinese from the perimeter of Red China to this island.

The Nationalists cloaked the airlift in secrecy, declining to confirm published reports that the first of a fleet of C-46 and C-47 transports had ferried men, women and children from Thailand to central Formosa.

It has been reported that as many as 5,000 Chinese will be evacuated from the Thailand-Burma-Laos border area. Those three countries claim the Chinese are remnants of Nationalist armies defeated 12 years ago by the communists. The Nationalists say they are recent escapees from Red China.

Gen. S. K. Hu, Nationalist Defense Ministry spokesman, said progress of the airlift, which began Friday, is being kept secret because "there is lots of air space" between Thailand and Formosa "and we want to protect our people from possible red attack."

Hazard Made By Returning Rocket Plants

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 18 (AP)—Fleet plants of homeward-bound nuclear rockets may have made destroyed in space lest they create a radiation hazard, how-ever Jim Lang in impacting the Earth, an atomic energy commission scientist said today.

Dr. Wright H. Langham said any such impact might endanger any people in the paricular area nearby and even create dangerous international political incidents.

At the same time he predicted that all major radiation safety problems concerning nuclear rockets will be adequately solved by the time such rockets are ready for unmanned or manned flight.

And, declared Langham, of the AEC's Los Alamos, N.M., scientific laboratory, the United States appears to have a slight lead over the Soviet Union in developing such rockets, which he declared may offer man's best bet for exploring the moon and the planets.

The two tests showed Kennedy had the votes in the full White House weight behind his congressional supporters he has a slightly better than even chance of getting what he wants.

The Byrd amendment was a case in point. Byrd, who heads the senate finance committee, had won the approval of that group for his amendment.

It would have provided that states wouldn't have to pay back the federal government more than they draw from the federal government to extend compensation payments to jobless who have used up their benefits.

Sen. Albert Gore, D., Tenn., led the floor fight to restore the Kennedy principle under which states selected from employers would go into a national pool. Under this plan, 40 states would have to pay in more than they receive in loans.

Administration leaders did some thinking before they decided to take on Byrd on this unfavorable ground. But Kennedy decided it was time to find out whether he could lick the coalition.

Spain Makes Issue of New Sahara Plans

MADRID, Spain, March 18 (AP) — Spain charged today Morocco's irregular troops are massing on the northern frontier of the Spanish Sahara "with the intention of invading Spanish territory."

A foreign ministry aide said the Moroccans "are concentrated in the Mezeid region, 125 miles east of Tarfaya, and from 25 miles from the Spanish frontier.

Spain is taking all necessary measures to repel aggression, the spokesman said.

Spanish Canary Islands have been reinforced so heavily in the past three months that they reportedly look like an army camp. Garrisons in the Algerian region of western Spain also have been heavily reinforced.

Spain has warned Morocco several times, the last time on March 8, the spokesman said, and also has advised the United Nations and several individual countries including the United States.

JUST WHO SHOULD BUY YOUR CEMETERY LOT?

Of course it's not a cheerful subject. Neither is insurance. Or your will. But be frank with yourself—some day you MUST have a cemetery lot. And who should provide it? Should its purchase be left as a burden at the worst possible time for your widow, or widower, or children? Or isn't it for more thoughtful and pleasant to arrange for it BEFORE it's needed? You'll find it actually easy and most satisfying to select a family lot IN ADVANCE in our time-honored cemetery. Dignified surroundings, permanent care, traditional personal commemoration. The cost is reasonable.

Pellons will assist members as drivers for the sales teams. Lester Routh is chairman of the sale for the Snake River Lions.

SCHOOL PROBLEM

It's common knowledge that costs of maintaining public schools have increased considerably and are still going up, with no end in sight. For instance, the people of Idaho will pay six million dollars more during 1961 and 1962 to support public schools than they paid in the previous two years. And the education lobby was supporting a figure that would have doubled the six million dollar sum.

Less publicized is the pinch of the parochial or church-supported school. The pressure of increased costs varies for the parochial school, depending on the church involved. Instruction costs—the pay of teachers—comprise the largest single item in operation of public schools. Parochial schools using lay teachers have the same big problem, but this is not an item of increased costs not fully felt by those parochial schools in which most teachers are dedicated religious sect members.

Nevertheless, church-supported schools have their problems of rising costs. Even though the term "church-supported" carries the connotation of some magic source of funds, the money still comes from members of the church. For religious reasons, these church members frequently support two school systems, public and parochial. If they are property owners, they pay taxes to support public schools which are of limited use to their children. Quite frequently such church members and their children to the church-supported school for eight years, then to public schools for four years.

This system does help alleviate the problem of the public schools by keeping the children of church members out of the public school system for the first eight years. In the minds of most people, such aid does not justify use of government funds for church-supported schools. The continued separation of church and state is essential to the U. S. form of government.

Church people who think it over would insist on the continued separation. Originally, the division was intended to keep the church from dominating government. Now the situation is reversed and any government funds "given" to church-supported schools would be accompanied by the inevitable government regulation.

President Kennedy is to be commended and admired for his stand on the matter of government aid to parochial schools. As everyone knows, the President is a Catholic, the first member of his church to head the U. S. government. Yet he didn't hesitate in speaking out against any sort of government aid or loans to parochial schools. President Kennedy declared such use of public funds would be unconstitutional. At the same time, he urged restraint in the debate over federal aid to schools, either public or private, to avoid dividing the nation and its religious groups.

In this respect, President Kennedy is right. No argument over federal aid to schools should progress to the point where the nation is divided and hurt.

Certainly church members should avoid becoming aroused over the matter. Public schools are provided for all children, regardless of religion. If church members would prefer that their youngsters get a combined religious and general education, then they should be willing to provide the necessary school and finance it.

Separation of church and state is one of the basic beliefs on which the government is founded. There is little reason to believe that the current session of congress or any session in the near future is likely to ignore this premise.

But on the general matter of federal aid to education, there is going to be a sharp division of opinion. Even President Kennedy's appeal for restraint may be ignored. Federal aid to education is no different from any other federal aid. At the outset, funds may be given freely and with no strings attached. But few people expect such a generous attitude to prevail for long. By the time hard-pressed school districts became "addicted" to federal aid, bureaucrats would have devised the set of rules and regulations governing use of federal funds. The overall effect would be federal bureaucratic control of schools accepting the federal funds. This is the proved pattern of federal aid.

Many people oppose anything that would result in government control of education. The alternative, certainly, is for each community or school district to dig deep enough to support its own schools. Perhaps some state direction is needed to equilize funds so that poorer districts will not be penalized while richer districts—which may have fewer pupils—drift along on a low school tax levy. But basically, taxpayers who oppose anything like federal aid to education must be prepared to pay the bill.

Gradually, realistic laws are appearing to permit such action. Limits placed on school levies sometimes prevent districts from paying their own way. One new law in point was signed by Governor Smylie early in March. It would permit school districts to levy up to 10 mills annually for 10 years to finance new construction. Laws such as this may be the answer to part of the school problem.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

(On Sunday, Ray Tucker answers readers' questions of general interest on national and international politics and personalities. Questions may be sent to him at 3084 Hillcrest place, Chevy Chase, Md.)

WASHINGTON — "I am sickened," writes Mrs. MHS, Seattle, "by the overweening and unjustified adulation of the new President. The press writers and radio reporters are raising such a chorus of praise that one must conclude that there is a paucity and a purpose. His admirers are at this moment running Mr. Kennedy for a second term."

JUSTIFIED—Answer: This complaint is quite justified, in my opinion, even though Mrs. MHS included me in the category she criticizes. However, it is a phenomenon which accompanies the advent of every new administration. Writers with its new faces and foibles.

I have been appalled and disgusted by the sycophantic gushing of Washington writers with every change of political power at the capital, especially the society reporters. When a new administration arrives at the top, they report that the men are "brilliant, attractive and an asset merely by the way they look. The ladies are "beautiful, chic, well-gowned and intelligent."

The men and women whom they had previously exalted beyond compare—in this instance, the official Eisenhowers—are relegated to obscurity in their society pages. They are no longer invited as "lions" and "catches" by Washington hostesses. It is a modern version of the courtiers' cry of "The king is dead, long live the king."

• • •

COMMERCIALIZING—In fact, Washington has been amused, although I don't know how the Kennedy family feels about it, by the efforts of commercial interests to capitalize on Mrs. Kennedy's physical attractions and her clothes.

I understand that models resembling her even remotely are in great demand here and in New York. A recent, full-page advertisement for a certain dress line featured the picture of a young woman who was a close likeness of the first lady.

Elderly readers, however, will recall that there was a vogue for an "Alice Roosevelt blue" when she was the toast of the town in that shade. There was also a "Grace Coolidge rose," or maybe it was a gardenia.

I once discussed this silly and rather hypocritical situation, which is not peculiar to Washington, with "Steve" Early and Marvin McIntyre, press and appointment secretaries, respectively, to FDR. We had often covered Washington as reporters, and I felt free to express the hope that they would not permit their current adulation to spoil them.

In answer to my fears, they took an extremely sane and practical attitude toward their popularity in Washington society. They said:

• • •

"SYSTEM IS PHONY"—We know that the system is phony. We are invited and entertained only because of our present position at the White House. When the boss and we quit, we will be forgotten. We will be has-beens and nobodies. There is no real affection or sincerity behind all these honors and hospitality.

"But while we have the opportunity, which we will never have again, there is no reason why we and our families should not make the most of it. We won't let it go to our heads."

• • •

NEWSMEN OBJECTIVE—I must take issue, however, with the complaint that political reporters are also the society writers. With a few exceptions, I think that we have been quite objective in our appraisal of President-Kennedy's first few months in office.

With regard to his legislative program, I think that we have waived judgment. In short, we are giving him the probation period to which every new and untried chief executive is entitled.

If his plans and programs go sour in actual operation, Mrs. MHS may be assured that we shall so report.

Finally, I am glad to have this question fired at me, I have been wanting to get these thoughts, perhaps a bit cynical, out of my mind for many years. I have no aspiration, however, that my reaction will have a salutary effect on his "The king is dead, long live the king" sycophancy.

VIEWS OF OTHERS

RECLAMATION HOPEFULS

The fact that the proposed Fremont dam on the lower Teton river appears next on the launching platform in East Idaho's reclamation timetable is heartening news. At this week's annual meeting of water district 36, the bureau of reclamation reported keen interest in the project and announced it planned quick follow-up of its preliminary investigation. The water district took up the cudgel with a resolution calling for both governmental agencies and congress to expedite this worthy project.

The project, as a bureau spokesman has pointed out, has summoned intense interest in the upper valley. This multiple purpose project, it appears now, will not only be of benefit to Madison and Teton counties but could have real value to water users on the Fall river drainage in Fremont county, too, under a water exchange program. As this newspaper pointed out in the wake of the Idaho Falls hearing on the government's Snake river development report, the Fremont dam should be the next running project in Southeast Idaho after Burns Creek dam. Others include expansion of the Ashton reservoir and the Willow Creek project in Bonneville county. Practical projects in Wyoming include one on the Salt river drainage and the flood control and small supplemental reservoir projects in Jackson Hole.

It was disappointing to hear at the water meeting, however, that no earnest investigation is now being programmed for the proposed Willow Creek reservoir in Bonneville and Jefferson counties. The project appears well worth early attention.

The plan to recharge the underground water of the Snake river plain with flood waters from the north fork of the Snake is another highly commendable project which, we hope, will prove completely feasible. Feeding the Snake river's vast underground reservoir which has been tapped so successfully in the past decade is water engineering at its inventive best.

One project on the north fork of the Snake, however, which it is hoped the bureau of reclamation will discard is the Menan Buttes project. This scenic site should be preserved for another power, its power to enthrall in its natural state.

But for those other worthy projects on the Snake, we can only raise this hopeful petition—that they don't take as agonizingly long to approve as the long suffering Burns Creek dam.—Idaho Falls Post-Register.

EAGER WEAVER

Thruston B. Morton, the Republican national chairman, has undertaken a job that seems to us like about as difficult as the one Congressman Udall took a few thousand years ago—and he has our total sympathy in his task.

Senator Morton is looking for a successor as chairman of the GOP who will be acceptable to not two —but three—wings of the Republican party.

He wants somebody who will like and be liked by Richard Nixon, Nelson Rockefeller, and Sen. Barry Goldwater, who represent points of view that do not exactly coincide.

The senator's self-imposed job reminds us of an early speech of Franklin Delano Roosevelt's after his election to the presidency in 1932.

FDR had to present a point of view on agricultural policy for his administration, and two speech writers tried to help him out.

Louis Howe, an old and trusted associate, wrote one speech. Another associate wrote another. "Weave 'em together," was Roosevelt's rejoinder when the two speeches, presenting opposite points of view, were presented for his inspection.

That is something like the problems of the Republicans. Luckily for the GOP, it has three years in which to weave together the fabric of its political future.—Denver Post.

But there was one that returned to the T-N office the other day that resulted in more than a few smiles. Some postal clerk had used the stamp on the front of the letter and clearly checked the space "unknown."

The letter was addressed to "Clyde Rosa, Route 1, City."

It just so happens that Clyde Rosa has worked at the postoffice here for some 28 years.

BUT TO THE WEST!

Dear Sir;

Read with interest the report that the "south hills" are actually the Goose Creek mountains, but I don't believe it.

For years, I have understood that the Goose Creek mountains included the area over south and west of Burley, roughly, the area drained by Goose creek and including such points as Mount Harrison, Mount Independence and the City of Rocks.

But what about the area drained by Big creek, Deep creek, Cottonwood (the east one) creek, Mcconnell creek, Rock creek? etc. That is the area that comes to my mind when someone talks about the "south hills" and I don't ever recall hearing any sort of formal name for the area. Surely this isn't part of the Goose Creek mountains, is it?

GENTLEMAN IN THE FOURTH ROW

HOW A BONER HELPED ME EARN $15,000

By a Wall Street Journal Subscriber

One time on a business trip I got to the hotel late at night. The only room I could get was an expensive suite. Next morning the bellman handed me a copy of The Wall Street Journal by mistake. "Some rich guy must have had this room," I said to myself.

Well, I looked at The Journal. For the first time in my life I began to understand why some men get ahead while others stay behind. I learned about the far-reaching changes taking place in America. I found out about new inventions, new industries and new ways of doing business that are helping ambitious men earn money. I sent for a free subscription to The Wall Street Journal and, believe me, it has paid off. Last year my income was $15,000.

This story is typical. If you think The Wall Street Journal is just for millionaires, you are WRONG! The Journal is a wonderful aid to salaried men making $7,500 to $25,000 a year. It is valuable to owners of small businesses. It can be of priceless benefit to ambitious young men who want to earn more money.

The Wall Street Journal is the complete business DAILY. Has largest staff of writers on business and finance. The only business paper served by all three big press associations. It costs $24 a year, but you can get a Trial Subscription for three months for $7. Just tear out this ad and attach check for $7 and mail. Or tell us to bill you.

WASHINGTON

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON — Over the direction of American politics, and in particular the direction of the Republican party, there is just now a great deal of uneasy speculation. Sen. Barry M. Goldwater and his ardent admirers are hailing a great "conservative renaissance which they see sweeping the campus, the small towns, even the trade unions in a reversal of the long-term trend. But an examination of the state the other day showed that this is far from a unanimous opinion among Republicans. Sen. Jacob Javits, New York, challenged what he said was Goldwater's identification of the GOP with his own opposition to federal aid to education. Javits pointed out that the Republican platform of 1960 specifically backs federal help for school construction.

Peter Edson

Not only that, said Javits, but he and Sen. Prescott Sheridan Cooper and other Republicans and some Democrats were sponsoring a bill providing for construction and also "for incentives to improve teachers' salaries in all the states."

Here was a clear illustration of the cleavage in the party with "liberal" Republicans fearful that Goldwater will identify the GOP not merely with opposition to all welfare measures but with the radical right that would like to repeal the 20th century.

That same cleavage was evident in last year's election. While Goldwater, chairman of the senatorial campaign committee, plugged hard for the ticket, it was hardly a secret that he shared the views of his followers on the wrongness of what they considered Vice President Nixon's "me-tooism."

This is a fundamental belief shared by the senator from Arizona—that a great many Republicans do not vote at all because they feel they have no choice. Goldwater tells about addressing a meeting in New York at which during the question period he was asked if he would have voted for Averell Harriman, the Democratic incumbent, or for Nelson Rockefeller, the challenger for governor in 1958. When he said Rockefeller there was prolonged booing.

But Republicans of the opposite persuasion such as Javits and Sen. Clifford Case, New Jersey, are convinced that if Rockefeller had been the candidate last November he would have won.

Case is taking the lead in trying to recapture the New Jersey governorship with former secretary of labor, James Mitchell, one of the most liberal members of the Eisenhower cabinet, as the candidate. Here is the beginning of a potentially significant alliance of the big-city Republicans convinced that Goldwater conservatism can never win a national election.

Goldwater's own state of Arizona has four electoral votes. In November it went for Nixon by 201,224 to 186,701.

Arizona is in many respects perfectly tailored to the Goldwater approach. The salubrious climate has attracted many retired persons whose outlook is essentially conservative. The press in the capital, Phoenix, is unvaryingly ultra-conservative.

This does not, however, explain away his success in a state that was once "safe" for Democrats, nor does it touch his national appeal. In a time when political lines have been blurred, when the Eisenhower middle-of-the-road philosophy seems to embrace a large segment of the Democratic platform, when the grey of the cold war cannot be transposed into blacks and whites, Goldwater utters big, sharp fundamentals.

This reporter observed him briefly in his campaign for reelection to the senate in 1958. He was a bold, dashing figure, flying about the state in his own plane and speaking in his sure, crisp manner about freedom, communism, government tyranny. His opponent was Gov. Ernest McFarland, a Democrat of amiable intentions and no discernible convictions, who had been a singularly ineffective majority leader during his senate service.

"Even to an outsider it was apparent that McFarland had slight chances. You heard voters with interests in politics saying, "Well, you see Goldwater stands for something." Or again, "You may not agree with him but you know where he stands." That seemed to one observer to say a lot about the state of our political life today.

At the Republican convention in Chicago last July it was widely said that if the delegates had had a free choice they would have picked Goldwater. This was probably an exaggeration. But unquestionably he had strong support among rank-and-file delegates. And if it had come to a choice between the senator from Arizona and the governor of New York, there is no question about which way the convention would have gone.

The senator has unlimited drive and seemingly beneath his unruffled exterior unlimited ambition. Well off himself through the department stores his family owns, he can get unlimited money support from the business interests championing him. The question is: How far can he ultimately go with the backing of but one band in the political spectrum?

2 New Cars Are Due to Be Introduced by U.S. Firms

DETROIT, Mich., March 18 (AP)—The American consumer, puzzling over the vast variety of new car models better get ready for additional problems.

Two more new cars will be introduced very soon. Several more will be in the 1962 model lineup in the fall.

All are smaller than what have come to be regarded as standard size American cars, but none is "small-small." Those will come later.

First on the scene will be luxury versions of the Falcon and Comet, the two compact cars of Ford Motor company.

The luxury Falcon and Comet in general will follow Chevrolet's highly successful Corvair Monza. They will have additional outside trim, such as chevrons on the rear fenders and fancier tail lights, but most of the changes will be inside.

Bucket seats, one of the hottest items in any price field at the moment, will be used plus deluxe upholstery. The big difference between these models and the Monza will be a console running through the middle of the passenger compartment dividing the front seats.

The console, incorporating glove compartment, ash tray and the like, is a feature of the Thunderbird. Chevrolet's Corvette sports car and the limited production Chrysler 300G and Oldsmobile Starfire.

The Monza costs $161 and $216 more than other Corvair models but has captured a whopping 45 per cent of all Corvair sales. Ford obviously will charge more, too, but may try to squeeze in under the Chevrolet price.

Ford and Chevrolet are the two companies involved with new cars this fall, too. Both will offer "in-between" cars.

Chevrolet will slip a 115-inch wheelbase in between the Corvair 108 inches and the regular Chevrolet 119 inches. Ford will use a 115 to 115½-inch wheelbase series between the Falcon and the standard Ford 119.

Chevrolet is said to be using new engines for its new models, a four-cylinder, six-cylinder and V8.

One other forthcoming development at Ford calls for a new Mercury model, only slightly larger than the Comet. That will be built from the same body as the in-between Ford, but will use a V8 engine.

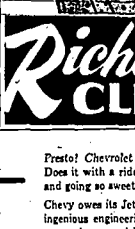

The smaller trend also will be noticeable in other makes from Plymouth and Dodge Dart on up. It shrink, probably several inches, but not quite to the wheelbase of the new Ford-Chevrolet models.

New High for Park Visitors Noted in '61

WASHINGTON, March 18 (UP)—Recorded visitors to units of the national park system reached a new high of 72,288,000 in 1960, the national park service reported today.

The total was based on a new counting system inaugurated during the year which materially affected the results in some units and was regarded as making no difference in others.

However, the service said had there been no change in counting procedure the 1960 visit total would have been 65,587,000, or an increase of 4.6 per cent over the previous high of 62,812,000 recorded in 1959.

Director Conrad L. Wirth said the new counting system assures that all areas use the same standards in defining a visitor.

Previously, Wirth said, some park superintendents did not count such persons as those who used park roads for their private business interests rather than for recreation purposes but such persons now are supposed to be counted.

Last Rehearsal Is Scheduled for Event in Burley

BURLEY, March 18—Final rehearsals will be held this week by the Mini-Cassia community chorus and civic orchestra which will present Handel's "The Messiah" at 2:30 p.m. Palm Sunday, March 26, at the Burley high school auditorium. Ronald Archibald, music instructor at the high school, will conduct.

A joint practice will be held at 3 p.m. Sunday in the auditorium and a complete dress rehearsal will be held at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

The presentation is sponsored by the Burley Music club. Mrs. Gail Wolf, chairman, appointed Mrs. Ronald Archibald and Mrs. Henry Oltmann to arrange programs, Mrs. Al Dawson to prepare publicity, and Archibald to provide stage settings.

A reception will be held for members of the chorus and orchestra in the band room at the school after the performance.

Clifford Mullikin has been working with the orchestra. It will accompany the chorus and play during the intermission.

A silver offering will be taken at the door to meet costs of the presentation and help complete the payment on music encyclopedias which were given to the Burley library.

Plans Week-end

WASHINGTON, March 18 (UP)—President Kennedy expects to follow Sunday what is becoming a pattern of spending part of the week-end at the 400-acre estate he and Mrs. Kennedy have leased near Middleburg, Va.

Mrs. Kennedy went to the estate, Glen Ora, Friday night. The White House said the President and his daughter, Caroline, 3, expect to make the 45-mile trip Sunday morning.

NEW REACTOR

PARIS, March 18 (UP)—The French atomic energy commission reports a new reactor with a plutonium core, which will make possible the study of high-speed neutron particles, has gone into operation on a military site.

Mystery Dive Made Under Nuclear Sub

HOLY LOCH, Scotland, March 18 (UP)—The U.S. Navy disclosed tonight a Briton made an unauthorized dive beneath the Proteus, top-secret mother ship of America's nuclear submarine force on this side of the Atlantic.

The navy said it has not identified the man officially, but his dive was detected by personnel aboard the Proteus.

A London newspaper said the intruder was Capt. Michael (Mad Mike) Henderson. The News of the World said Henderson claimed to have scratched his initials six inches high in two places on the 9,700-ton Proteus.

Henderson is known in Scotland as an adventurer and the tugboat skipper along the Clyde. He has no connection with the British armed services and is thought to derive his captain's title from his river boat activities.

The Proteus arrived early this month to activate a Scottish base for Polaris missile-carrying submarines. The navy said the intrusion occurred soon after.

So far, only the USS Patrick Henry has tied up alongside the mother ship. Both the Proteus and the Patrick Henry already are equipped with Polaris missiles, described as a vital weapon in event of nuclear war. The Patrick Henry and other American submarines eventually will start a constant armed underwater patrol through the eastern Atlantic.

The News of the World quoted Henderson as saying: "I wondered just how good the security precautions were around the Proteus. I certainly was not acting on instructions.

"It seems to me that the security surrounding the vessel is nonexistent though it might have been a different story if I had done the dive in daylight," Henderson was quoted as saying.

Rocket Engine Is Proposed by Firm

HUNTSVILLE, Ala., March 18 (UP)—Development of a solid-fuel rocket engine capable of developing three million pounds of thrust — twice as much as the eight-engine Saturn system — has been proposed by Thiokol Chemical corporation.

Thiokol recommended the development program to the national aeronautics and space administration after an economic feasibility study.

The company recommended a cluster of seven of the proposed engines for the initial stage of a supervehicle for space exploration.

It recommended a cluster of three for the second stage, with upper stages being propelled by liquid engines.

Widow of Morgan Arrested in Cuba

HAVANA, March 18 (UP)—The Cuban-born widow of executed American adventurer William A. Morgan has been arrested by Castro authorities, it was reported tonight.

Jorge Luis Carro, a lawyer who defended Morgan during the former Toledo, O., paratrooper's conspiracy trial last week, said the 23-year-old mother of two was picked up at Gunnabacoa, a small town about 10 miles east of Havana.

Military investigation authorities here said they could not confirm the report.

Two Road Deaths Reported in Utah

By The Associated Press

Two traffic deaths today boosted Utah's fatality toll to 33 for the year, compared to 38 by this time in 1960.

Marion Pace, 71, Price, Utah, died in a hospital a few hours after he was struck by an automobile in downtown Price. Officials said the accident occurred during a rainstorm.

Mrs. Mark A. Mary Dunn, 48, Ogden, died at a hospital in Cedar City of injuries received March 11 in a one-car accident on state highway 56.

LUNCHEON SET

WASHINGTON, March 18 (UP)—Mrs. John F. Kennedy has invited Washington newspaperwomen to a White House buffet luncheon April 11.

Oregon Attorney Eyes Damage Suit

SALEM, Ore., March 18—Atty. Gen. Robert Y. Thornton of Oregon reiterated today that he may go ahead with a damage suit against the Idaho Power company for loss of fish at Brownlee dam on the Snake river.

Thornton said Oregon might claim up to $500,000 damage.

He said he intends to invite the attorneys general of Washington and Idaho, as well as fish officials of those states, to a conference in Portland soon.

Thornton said fish officials estimated thousands of fish died because fish passage facilities proved a failure at Brownlee on the Snake between Oregon and Idaho.

Lloyd Rile, 67, Taken by Death

Lloyd Rile, 67, long-time Twin Falls resident, died Saturday morning at his home, 252 Second avenue north.

Mr. Rile was born March 2, 1894, at Davenport, Nebr., coming to Twin Falls in 1914. He farmed for many years and was a member of the American Legion post No. 7, Twin Falls.

Surviving are five brothers, Melvin Rile, Bradenton, Fla.; Harry Rile, Long Beach, Calif., and Ivan Rile, Wayne Rile and Robert Rile, all Twin Falls, and three sisters, Mrs. Verna Skinner, Long Beach; Mrs. Ina Pelphrey, Huntington Beach, Calif., and Mrs. Edna Cornelius, Grand Island, Nebr.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday in the White mortuary chapel by the Rev. Earl W. Riddle. Concluding rites will be held in Twin Falls cemetery by American Legion post No. 7. Friends may call at the mortuary Sunday evening, Monday, and until 1 p.m. Tuesday.

Woman Retiring From Gem Board

BOISE, March 18 (UP)—Mrs. R. L. Campbell, longtime member of the Idaho board of education, announced today she is retiring from the board.

Mrs. Campbell, whose term is expiring, said she is declining reappointment. She is the wife of State Sen. R. L. Campbell, R., Adams.

She has been a member of the board for some 12 years, and is a former president of the board.

The board finished a two-day meeting today which was concerned mostly with routine business. Supt. D. F. Engelking of the department of education said the next board meeting will be in Pocatello April 20-22.

Crack up for British Plan Is Predicted

LONDON, March 18 (UP)—Prime Minister Hendrik F. Verwoerd, apostle of white supremacy in South Africa, wound up a tumultuous visit to London tonight by predicting the British Commonwealth may crack up under pressures from African and Asian members.

At a news conference on the eve of his departure home, Verwoerd also lashed out at Prime Minister John Diefenbaker of Canada for joining Asian and African leaders in blasting South Africa at the Commonwealth conference.

Verwoerd held fast to his reasons for deciding to pull South Africa out of the multiracial Commonwealth. He said his country was faced with unacceptable demands to modify its policies of race segregation or face expulsion from the Commonwealth. Alternatively, he said, some African and Asian leaders threatened to quit the Commonwealth themselves unless South Africa mended its ways.

"I have to relieve Britain of the embarrassment," Verwoerd asserted.

Verwoerd is due to fly home Sunday — to a mixed reception. His National party followers intend to stage a hero's welcome for him at Johannesburg and Cape Towne airports.

But — emphasizing the bitter divisions between Dutch-speaking and English-speaking whites — Verwoerd's political opposition is planning a nationwide series of protest meetings to condemn him for severing South Africa's ties with the Commonwealth.

Verwoerd, relaxed and soft-spoken, told his news conference he thought Britain would be better able to hold the Commonwealth together without the "embarrassing" presence of South Africa.

Suffrage Nears In Capital Area

WASHINGTON, March 18 (UP)— The District of Columbia is teetering on the brink of suffrage.

A slight nudge that now seems bound to come within a matter of days could put over final ratification of the 23rd amendment, giving district residents the right to vote for president and vice president.

Thirty-three states have ratified. The amendment is half-way home in five other states, where one legislative body has okayed it. Thirty-eight states — three-fourths of the 50 — must ratify to write suffrage for the nation's capital into the constitution.

Reds to Stop Censoring of Foreign News

LONDON, March 18 (UP) — Western diplomats reported today the Soviet Union is expected to abandon direct censorship of stories written by foreign correspondents beginning Monday.

Such a step would end 21 years of Soviet interference with the free transmission of news from the USSR.

Information from Moscow suggested that correspondents will no longer have to submit their work to anonymous censors in the central telegraph office.

But in place of direct censorship there is likely to be a form of voluntary censorship, meaning correspondents will have to decide before sending stories whether they might offend the regime. This procedure already operates in other communist countries, such as Poland.

Correspondents there have the freedom to pick up a telephone and contact their offices in the West without going through an official censor. But their words are studied by officials and they may be called to account later.

The reported plans to lift censorship follow a number of stories in the Soviet press complaining about restrictions on Soviet correspondents in the United States.

Agency Gets Workers for Spud Plants

BURLEY, March 18—Since last Sept. 1, the Burley, Rupert, Jerome and Twin Falls offices of the employment security agency have placed 2,000 workers in area potato processing plants, according to Dave Lewis, manager of the Burley office.

In 1959 and 1960 when plans were announced for three new potato processing plants, there suddenly was a possible need for 3,000 workers, with 2,000 of them being women, he noted.

To find the answer, the Burley and Rupert offices of the Idaho employment agency, in cooperation with the Chamber of Commerce, surveyed both counties early in 1960. A total of 295 women indicated they would be interested in working at the plants. The problem was discussed with C. J. St. Simplot company, Heyburn, which was the first new plant to start operation.

Clearance procedures of the agency were explained and plans were outlined for recruiting workers from the Jerome-Twin Falls area, Lewis explained.

"This system worked so well in actual practice," says Bill Daniels, Simplot personnel director, "that we have made this a countinuing practice. We now use the employment service as a method of recruiting all women. The agency has been effective in supplying our heavy demand for labor, and we now have a large group of employes of whom we are proud."

Transportation problems soon developed, as many people were unable to get into a car pool, so Kirkman Brothers, Twin Falls, established bus service to all the plants by last fall, Lewis notes.

At present two buses each are run from Jerome and Twin Falls for all shifts at the plants.

In order to retain reserve residents of the east end of Jerome county, Hugh Nelson, manager of the Jerome office, established voluntary recruiters in Eden and at the Greenwood store.

When the opening date of Oreida drew near, the agency again offered its service. Workers were recruited from all parts of the Magic Valley. It soon became obvious that potato processors and applicants alike could be served better if recruitment were coordinated by one office.

Accordingly, Heyburn was placed in the administrative area of the Burley local office and orders from all five plants are cleared through there. Workers can register at any employment office in Magic Valley to work at any of the plants.

The Jerome office has referred 320 persons and 250 workers have come through the Twin Falls office as a part of the 2,000 workers placed in the potato processing plants since Sept. 1. The rest have been placed by the Burley and Rupert offices, Lewis says.

"We have employed a large number of these," says Henry Herrick, personnel manager at Oreida. "The employment service has done an outstanding job of recruiting all the hundred workers for us who could be trained in this work, and this was done in a relatively short time."

Hiring at the new plants has tapered off as the work force in each plant has become stabilized. The employment peak has been reached this season.

On Feb. 15, 2,743 people were employed in potato processing in Burley and Heyburn. Sixteen hundred of these were women. Normal turnover will continue to create new openings, but the biggest job has been done, Lewis said. Normally the employment of these gear their operation to placement activity in the summer and unemployment insurance claims in the winter, he declares.

Lewis was transferred to the Burley office as manager in October. In January, 1960, the Burley office placed 118 workers in jobs and took a total of 568 claims. This past January, the office placed 317 workers (local and clearance) and took 684 claims for unemployment insurance.

While the plant facilities are concentrated in the Burley-Heyburn area, every community in the valley is feeling the economic effect of the growth of potato processing in southcentral Idaho, Lewis declares. Workers are commuting from every town between Minidoka and Castleford and from Shoshone to Malta.

"How fast food processing has developed," Lewis says, "is best illustrated by the fact that in 1958 this industry employed only 400 people in Minidoka and Cassia counties. Today, potato processors alone employ 2,743 and future expansions will boost this figure."

Unit Members Discuss Possible School Sites

James Kinney, left, co-chairman of the finance committee of the Citizens' School Planning committee, and Charles S. Looney, co-chairman of the sites committee, look over a map of Twin Falls and discuss possible sites for a new junior high school. School's Expansion Plans to Be Listed At Local Meet Planned Tuesday Night

School expansion recommendations are expected to be given to the Twin Falls school board Tuesday night at a general meeting of the Citizens' School Planning committee.

The committee will meet in the junior high school auditorium at 8 p.m. Tuesday to hear reports from plant facilities, sites and cost study subcommittees. Action by the entire group on these reports will constitute recommendations to the board of education, which requested the studies by the citizens.

Activation of the general committee came after a survey about a year ago by Dr. J. Frederick Weltzin, dean of education at the University of Idaho. Dr. Weltzin recommended construction of another junior high school in Twin Falls to relieve congestion at the present building.

Earl Haroldsen and Joseph McCullom, co-chairmen of the publicity subcommittee, report discussions of other subcommittees have involved the new junior high school, renovation of the present building and Lincoln school to eliminate conditions that create fire hazards and an addition to the high school. Details of decisions on these items will be given to the entire committee Tuesday night.

He added it has been pointed out in discussions that the present junior high school building is a fine plant, but is overcrowded and needs work to eliminate fire hazards.

Ralph Olmstead, chairman of the general committee, asserted at its last meeting that the group's goal should be a bond issue for school expansion as soon as possible this spring.

Piano Virtuoso Acclaimed by Community Concert at Burley

By MRS. MARVIN PEARSON

BURLEY, March 18—Jorge Bolet, a pianist of international stature and a keyboard virtuoso of the first rank, received many curtain calls from the capacity crowd attending the third concert of the Mini-Cassia Community concert series at the Burley high school auditorium Wednesday night.

Many members of the association acclaimed Bolet as the finest piano artist ever to appear in Burley. During the last number on the program, "Mephisto Waltz," Liszt, his hands moved so swiftly that they became a blurr.

Bolet's concert grand Baldwin piano was shipped to Burley from Boise by courtesy of the Brown Music company, Twin Falls. Other numbers in his program included Ballade No. one, two, three, four, in G minor, Opus 23, F major, Opus 38, A flat major, Opus 47, and F minor, Opus 52, all Chopin.

The second portion of the program was "Sonata in D major, K. 576" Allegro, Adagio, Allegretto, Menuet, and "Funeraillas" and "Un Sospiro, " Liszt.

After the concert a reception and buffet supper were held for the musician in the home economic rooms at the school with members of the association as hostess. Approximately 50 persons attended.

The artist stated that he would be giving a concert at the University of Utah, Salt Lake City, the next evening. His concert tour started Oct. 1 and will continue until June 16. During that time he will give 45 concerts in this country and 30 in Europe.

When questioned concerning the length of time he practiced, he said, "If I told you the number of hours I practice, you wouldn't believe me, and if I told you the number of hours you would believe, I would be telling a lie. It is what you can accomplish in a certain length of time that is important, not the length of time you practice."

"If it takes you more than four hours a day to accomplish your goal, you'd better forget the whole thing," he asserted.

"Concentration is the important thing in practicing. More time is wasted in so called "practicing" than any other thing. Learn to play your piano for enjoyment. Competition in the field is terrific with 99 per cent that don't make the grade. The life of a concert artist, I don't recommend," he declared.

Mrs. Tesla Bellini, Twin Falls, was among the guests for the reception.

Other officers elected are Mrs. Robert Carrier, vice president; Mrs. Sydney Rehn, secretary and Mrs. Jan Cranney, treasurer. Officers will be installed during the next meeting.

The group discussed the possibility of changing the meeting night. But decided to let new officers select the meeting night for the coming year.

Mrs. Glen Kunau, education chairman of the Idaho division of the American Cancer society, presented a film strip entitled "To Smoke or Not to Smoke."

More men die from lung cancer than in automobile accidents; 100 Americans die every day of the year with cancer; two changes in our way of life contribute to lung cancer—air pollution and smoking; ten times as many cigarette smokers as nonsmokers die of lung cancer; about one in 20 persons having the disease is cured by surgery; one-fourth of the doctors who formerly smoked have given up the habit, the film pointed out.

The fifth grade room of Mrs. Roy Earl and Mrs. Willard Allentico for high room count. The door prize was awarded to Jim Roper.

Bids were read by Linford Manning for the microphone and amplifier which PTA plans to buy as its project for the year. The executive committee will report on its decision at the next meeting.

Tournament judges were F. D. Johnston, Mrs. Marion Tanner, Mrs. Jerry Ballenger, Mrs. E. M. Wright, Mrs. Richard High, Mrs. Rudy Aahenbrener, Mrs. Thomas Alworth, Eugene Hull and Lloyd Webb.

Writer Suggests Candidate For Kennedy's Peace Corps

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

NEW YORK, March 18 (AP) — Here's a young man up on the floor of our block whom we'd like to nominate for President Kennedy's peace corps—the overseas branch, not the domestic one. His striking species of homus americanus comes fully equipped with a red satin basketball jacket, well-fitting dungarees, handtooled cowboy boots and a set of bongo drums.

The corps undoubtedly will relish him for a variety of reasons, but cultural and intellectual-but-nuts they're being a bit too wary.

The natives would find him fascinating.

How often does someone come to the village palming a basketball in one hand and clutching a transistor radio to his ear with the other? Leftist elements may elect him of trying to make contact with the Allen Dulles office, but actually he is only trying to keep abreast of the top 40 tunes on the juke box charts.

From what we can gather, our candidate for the corps is singularly suited to survive on the economy of any country, whether his environment be in the jungles of Africa or the rain forests of the Amazon.

He hasn't started grasshopper and barbecued boa constrictor should be a welcome relief after a steady diet of hamburgers, hero sandwiches, cold cuts, popcorn and warm beer.

The fact that he is used to the great outdoors, having spent most of his formative years under the stars right both on the corner, should make him at home anywhere, be it a grass-roofed hut or igloo.

His credentials as a peace emissary are equally impressive. After finishing high school under the most benevolent auspices, he has been at peace with himself and the world, existing in a perpetual state of mental detachment that would stir the envy of any Buddhist monk. Getting him to focus in front of the draft board is like asking the great Houdini to chase itself around the room.

The Brooklyn-lined banks of the Hudson, it should be cultural-wise, are another they could teach the finer points the rudiments of dragging cans in a residential neighborhood (with unmuzzled mufflers), of idle store watching, chinning on the stoops of a subway platform and other quaint pastimes.

In no time at all, kids everywhere will be clamoring for their own residential neighborhoods, complete with candy stores and subways. And village life will never be the same again. How can the medicine man, with all his charms and amulets, hope to compete with two transistor radios going full blast?

The language barrier should present no particular difficulties. So far as we know, he has none. In all the years we've known him, we've never heard him utter any sound other than a piercing "Hey, bu-peee!"

Who or what "bu-peee" is, we have never been able to determine, but night and day, summer and winter, the lonely cry of "Hey, bu-peee," echoes outside our window, like a prehistoric moan from the gray, forgotten centuries.

If "bu-peee" ever turns up, we hope he gets into the corps, too. If not, our hero can pursue his solitary search around the world. When they finally do meet, on some far-flung coral reef or other,

2 Men Have Hope up for Canyon Road

BURLEY, March 18 — Senator K. G. Bergen and Robert Brimers said yesterday after a trip to Washington, D. C., that they were optimistic about obtaining funds for improving the Howell canyon road.

Both men quoted Sen. Henry Dworshak as saying, "We'll get it done."

Brimers also said Rep. Ralph Harding is throwing his full support behind the proposed improvement. Harding asked for a portfolio of pictures of the Howell canyon road, ski slopes and summer homes, and letters from area individuals. He would use the material for presentation to others in Washington who will assist him in passing the project.

The two men declared the need for a year-round road into the area, during their visit in the capital. They said they felt they had accomplished their mission of impressing the forest service of the need for funds to improve the road.

Both men praised Gen. John E. Walsh, Idaho national guard, for his support of the project. They returned to Burley by air with General Walsh.

Burley Mayor J. Leonard Salmon also attended some of the meetings held on the Howell canyon road. The mayor was in Washington to attend hearings on the Burns creek dam proposal.

"Electric heat was chosen for 6 of 8 new homes in Buhl last year"

—FRANK GIESE, BANKER-FARMER, BUHL, IDAHO

"Total electric living is one of the signs of a progressive community. We now have 14 all-electric homes in Buhl. Heralded as the home of the world's largest trout farm and one of the focal points for Idaho's new food processing industry, Buhl shows up in many ways as a modern and forward-looking agricultural center," says Frank Giese, Buhl bank executive and cattle farmer.

"After our first year in our own total-electric home, our family appreciates the benefits of all-electric living, especially the cleanliness, comfort and convenience of electric heat," says Mr. Giese. The Gieses are shown with Tony, 13, and Robert Gregory, 8, (Danny, 11, was visiting his Grandmother).

"My modern kitchen is a joy to work in"

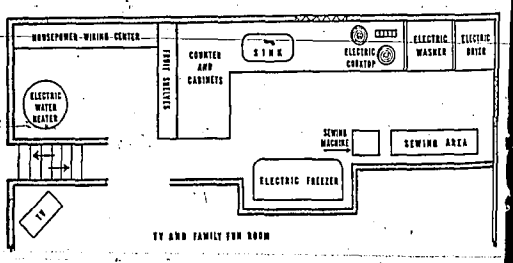

Even the boys don't object too strenuously to giving "Mom" a hand in her all-electric kitchen, Mrs. Giese says. "I like the fact that my kitchen is so easily kept neat and clean. Dirty dishes are quickly tucked away into the dishwasher."

"Modern electric living helps me serve my family better and gives me more time for worth-while community activities such as my work with the P.T.A. and Red Cross blood bank," Mrs. Giese says.

Smart Planning in the Giese's LIVE BETTER ELECTRICALLY basement!

A large closet area houses fruit storage shelves, the 3-times-faster Quick Recovery electric water heater, and the FULL HOUSE-POWER service entrance. Separate boxes provide a circuit to the barn, underground service to the electric pump, electric fences, and stock tank floats and de-icers as well as circuits for electric heating, major appliances and lighting circuits for the home.

A full-length basement counter houses the washer and dryer. A pushbutton two-unit cooktop is used for canning, freezing and to cook TV dinners on family fun nights. The counter also encloses a sink, cabinets and storage area. On the opposite wall are the freezer, sewing machine and sewing area.

An adjoining recreation and television room offers a place where the boys can play while their mother is busy at laundry, sewing and canning chores. "It keeps the boys where I can know what they are doing and takes a big load off the wear and tear on the living room," Mrs. Giese says.

Writer Complains That Small Farmer Is Being Discouraged

Editor, Times-News:

What is freedom?

For quite some time I have been watching the farm situation trying to figure out how such a dictatorship could prevail in any particular occupation.

In our free country the farmer is told what he can raise, how much he can raise, how much land much he can use and what price he can get out of his produce. Why?

This situation was brought out during the period following World war II in a desperate try to curb the surplus of farm commodities built up through controlled farming during the war.

It is my opinion that the method is now being used to try to discourage the small farmer and put farming in the hands of large concerns and corporations. That is exactly what is happening. The larger the unit of production the more surplus and the more control needed.

The practices of the politicians who are controlling this type of dictatorship resemble exactly what it is, a bunch of city politicians trying to iron out the problems of a farmer.

If this situation is to be rectified, it must be done by those who know what they are doing. The farmer. Supply and demand is the only thing that will end the surplus and save the small farmer. The only ones who are familiar with the laws of supply and demand in the farm industry are the farmers, not a bunch of publicity happy, and self appointed political geniuses.

Being elected to office does not make a man any smarter than he was to begin with, even though he may think so.

If you have unity among farmers and not Union of Farmers, you still have free men.

Senator Defends Position on Measure to Change ISC Name

Editor, Times-News:

I read last Sunday's issue of the Times-News with mixed emotions as I was both condemned and praised. There were some serious accusations made concerning my vote on the bill to change the name of Idaho State college to Idaho State university.

This bill was in the state affairs committee for a number of days and at least three hearings were held on the bill. I soon discovered in the hearings that there was more to changing a name than I had realized.

It became apparent that there would be problems of increased expense, increased costs to students, faculty expansion, plant expansion and other items. I do not oppose progress at Idaho State college or any educational institution.

My final decision concerning my vote was made after I was assured that HB 227 would become law. This bill provides in part that "the state board of education and board of regents of the University of Idaho are hereby directed to cause a survey of all tax-supported institutions offering courses above the high school level in this state to be made by a responsible public or private agency or individual or individuals covering these areas:

The objectives of the higher education program projected through the next 10 years and the degree to which these are being realized, with suggested programs for more effective and efficient utilization and coordination of objectives and course offerings as between and within the public institutions of higher education."

This bill is logical. I think the public is entitled to know all the ramifications of any change at tax-supported schools. There are many senators, including me, who feel that the citizens of Idaho would be better served if Lewiston Normal school was made a vocational school. This is only one of the matters which should be covered in the survey provided in HB 227.

I hope the students at Idaho State college will study the senate journal of Feb. 9, pages seven through nine, concerning the building program which grants Idaho State college top priority for $2,200,000 for new education and science buildings. I think they will find it enlightening. For their information I voted for this program.

Although we did not agree, I admire the spunk and forthrightness of the students wanting the name change. I would like to point out, however, that I heard from none of these students prior to the vote on the bill concerning the name change.

I have every reason to believe that the state board of education will make a comprehensive survey as provided in HB 227 and make a full and complete report to the next legislature. I am sure that this is small consolation to the student who had his heart set on the name change, but I feel my decision was for the best interests of higher education and the people of my county and state.

GEORGE L. BLICK

Persons Who Helped Change Grain Regulation Are Lauded

Editor, Times-News:

The mixed grain regulation that placed a maximum of 25 per cent wheat in our grain mixtures will long be remembered by the Magic Valley farmer as another government regulation that not only placed a hardship on the farmer, but also cost him a lot of money. Now that the regulation has been changed, I would like to pay tribute to the hundreds of people who worked hard to get this regulation changed.

I pay special tribute to Sen. Frank Church and the rest of our congressional delegation who actually got the regulation changed for us. It is very enlightening to know that the problems of the Idaho farmer are not forgotten by the people who represent us in Washington, D. C.

I also would like to pay tribute to other people in Idaho who worked hard to solve the problem; especially State Sen. Don Frederickson, Gooding and Monroe Hays, Filer, state director of the Idaho Farm Bureau federation, who went to Washington, D. C., to present the problem directly to the department of agriculture.

I would like to praise Charles Harris and Floyd Lincoln, Twin Falls; and Kyle Bell, Buhl, who served as the Twin Falls County Farm Bureau mixed grain committee. With the assistance of the women's committee, they obtained some 4,592 signatures on a petition in protest to the mixed grain regulation, and to Walter Shouse and Gerald Siren who first started the movement in Twin Falls county to change the mixed grain regulation.

I would like to thank Harold West, Boise, administrator of the Idaho wheat commission who gave us valuable assistance and who got the Idaho wheat commission and other state wheat agencies to support us on this action.

I would like to thank the many organizations that supported the Farm Bureau in its work: The state ASC committee, county ASC committee, state Grange, Cattlefeeder's association, and many other feeders and feed dealers.

Many individuals put in their own time and efforts to support us. Some are Stanley Trenhail, Idaho commissioner of agriculture; Curtis Eaton, Twin Falls Bank and Trust company; Sam Rosen, Twin Falls Times-News; Marlin Green, Idaho Cattlefeeders' president; Ellis Shawver, Jerome; Larry Irwin, Kimberly; Theodore Fix, attorney, Twin Falls; John Martin, Producers Credit association, Twin Falls; Otto Florence, Independent Meat company, Twin Falls; Ralph Olmstead, vice president of Idaho Cattlefeeders' association, and many others too numerous to mention.

It was only through the efforts of all these people that the mixed grain regulation finally was changed.

Lions Club Completes Cassia Road Sign Project

Herman Bedke, left, chairman of the Burley Lions club rural road sign project, stands beside the sign 150 E that is one and one-half miles east from 16th street and Overland avenue, point of origin for the numbers system, with Fred Allen, past president of the club and currently a candidate for Lions district governor. The club paid for erection of the signs and they will prove helpful to club members as they conduct a rural sale Monday for Live, Inc., and sell brooms, rubber door mats, cotton woven rugs and gift wrapping bows to help the handicapped who make them. Burley Lions Club to Conduct Rural Sale of "Live" Products

BURLEY, March 18—The Burley Lions club project of numbering country roads adjacent to Burley on a grid system will prove helpful to club members as they conduct a rural sale for the benefit of the handicapped of Live, Inc., Boise, Monday evening.

Live, Inc., is a non-profit plan for handicapped persons which was established and is maintained by the Lions clubs of Idaho. It has been found the best way to be self-supporting has been through the door-to-door sale of some of their products by Lions club members. Other items such as survey stakes are sold to the state highway department, Truman Bradley, local club president, reports.

The Burley Grange and Farm Bureau and other farm organizations have listed all the residences of the area by the new designated addresses. These are on file with the Burley fire station. William B. Fisher, manager of the local telephone office, reports that the new directories soon to be distributed will use this system in designating the addresses for the rural residents.

Herman Bedke, chairman of the rural sign project, states that the public will be able to find any person living in the country. Others on the committee were Al Thaxton, Veri McBride and Nile Gorringe. The entire cost of the project and erection of the signs were handled by the club.

The point of origin for the numbering of the rural area was 16th street and Overland avenue. The north and south axis for state highway 27 and the east and west axis for highway 30 is with each mile from the point of origin being numbered by the hundreds.

Bedke explains the road two miles south of the point of origin running east and west is numbered 200 south and the road running north and south one and one-half miles east from point of origin is numbered 150 east.

In this manner each intersection can readily be found as well as the residences of the persons living on the Burley project. Roads are numbered from the Declo-Albion highway, state highway 77 on the east, to the edge of the farming area in the Starrh's Ferry area west of Burley and from the city of Burley south five miles, he says.

The sign project was promoted by the necessity of emergency vehicles such as the fire truck, ambulances and police cars, to be able to go directly to an accident or fire which it is reported.

Arranging With African Violets Shown at Meet

Mrs. William Grange presented a program on arranging with African violets for the Magic Valley Saintpaulia club Monday afternoon at her home.

Members were told that arranging is an art and requires practice and study as in any other field. It was said that all arrangements must have a form or line such as the vertical triangle, asymmetrical, crescent, circular, rectangular or hearth curve.

In designing with African violets, she said the difference is the use of a container that will accommodate and camouflage the root system or pot.

Points to remember in arrangements are the use of an odd number of flowers or branches, no two should be placed at the same height, some design or reason for being and the violet should be the focal point.

Mrs. Grange suggested when using blossoms only to use small containers such as bud vases, ash trays or cereal bowls. The blossoms should be kept in a mass and not scattered here and there. The eye, it was said, must travel smoothly through the arrangement.

Good arrangements are not always the ones that appeal most to the eye. Eye has to be trained as to any art or fashion.

She explained the elements and principles of a Japanese design, the highest; man, between, and the lowest. She said this is a basic line, especially when a focal point is a necessity.

Accessories she noted should be an integral part of design and not used without a reason. They must add or locate something. Some contrast is needed for interest, but not over flowering.

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI

A fact is, when you think about it, a beautiful thing. Beautiful because it is the truth and until we accept the fact as the truth we shall not be able to live successfully with it. By accepting it and working with that acceptance, we can manage, however hard the fact may appear at the moment.

This is not easy for a child to understand but his elders know, that when a hard fact puts its pressure on a child, they must help him to accept what cannot be changed. A matter of course attitude, a sense of humor, a stern determination to make the best of a bad situation, any form of acceptance accompanied by a cheerful attitude will do the trick.

Joel was in the swimming pool with his classmates when one said, "Joel, one of your feet is smaller than the other, Howcome?" Immediately 30 pairs of eyes were fixed on Joel's foot, plainly much smaller than the other. Joel grinned. "Yeah. One of them ate cherries and the other one said, I wish I did." His cheerful grin, his wry response made any thought of ridicule or pity impossible. The boys laughed and that was that!

Joel's acceptance of the fact that his feet did not match, that when his shoes were bought each foot had to be fitted separately, that he was "out" in any footrace with his companions, was not his work alone, but the careful studied attitude of his parents. Early in his life he had been taught to accept the fact that he had this slight handicap and that it did not matter so long as he was ready to think it did not matter.

Many a child is born with a slight handicap which, if not accepted by him is bound to make trouble for him once he is in contact with other children. A certain shade of hair, red or very blond, a limp, a birthmark, will mark a child as different, and if he is not prepared for the crude interest and the mocking chorus of a nickname, he is in for trouble. That can cause real suffering. Better start early to help him accept the fact.

Idaho Falls Takes State Triple A Title With 58-52 Victory Over Pocatello

BOISE, March 18 (AP)—Big Gary Cook led the Idaho Falls' Tigers to their second straight Idaho state triple-A high school basketball championship tonight, tossing in 30 points in his team's 58-52 victory over Pocatello. Cook, 6-foot, 8-inch center for the Tigers, used both a pivot and a hook shot effectively in scoring against the tall Pocatello Indians. The game was close all the way with Idaho Falls holding a slight edge most of the time. The Tigers' biggest lead was eight points. In the consolation finals, Lewiston beat Kellogg 65-39.

Idaho Falls coach Charles Bills used only five men again against Portneuf as he did in the Tigers' 62-47 semifinal with over Boise Friday.

Besides Cook they were Gary Orchard, who scored 16 points, Gordan Watson, who got 8, and Johnny Hayden and Ronnie Hart, each of whom got 2.

Randy Harris paced the Pocatello Black Cats, scoring 16 points. Mike Stratton at 6-foot 5 inches, the squad's second tallest man, got 12. Big 6-foot 7-inch Bob Smith tanked in 10.

The state championship was the seventh for Idaho Falls, which won also in 1931, 1951, 1952, 1953 and last year.

Idaho Falls held its widest margin, nine, through the third period. It maintained the margin near that figure going into the final quarter, but Pocatello began catching up then.

At one point the Indians narrowed the Idaho Falls lead to 49-46, but the Tigers widened the gap again and with only 33 seconds left to play had a 58-50.

Harris dunked one in from near the foul line in the final seconds to make it 58-52.

The tall Pocatello Cook got 16 of his 30 points in the first half. He got the game's first basket to give Idaho Falls a 2-0 lead. But baskets by Stratton, Smith and a free throw put Pocatello in front, 5-2.

Cook scored twice and Orchard once to put Idaho Falls ahead again at 8-5. The teams traded baskets then until two long shots by Pocatello's Kent Brimhall and one by Harris put the Indians in front 13-12.

Orchard drove in for a basket to give Idaho Falls the lead 14-13 but Stratton got a tip-in for Pocatello to make it 15-14 for the Indians at the end of the first quarter.

The lead changed hands then almost with every basket until midway through the second quarter when Idaho Falls with two field goals and free throws by Cook, took command at 25-21. Pocatello never again was in front. The half ended at 29-26.

The Lewiston-Kellogg game was close only in the first quarter. The two teams battled basket for basket, with the lead changing hands several times in the opening minutes.

Lewiston went ahead at 7-5, but Kellogg tied it at 7-all. Lewiston took a 10-7 lead then but Barclay Poole put Kellogg in front, 11-10 with a shot from under the basket. Dave Barton, who was the game's leading scorer with 17 points, connected with a rebound for Lewiston and Fred Bushong tossed in one from well out to make it 14-11 for the Bengals.

Larry Sappington hit from the corner for Kellogg to cut the margin to one point but a free throw gave Lewiston a 15-13 edge at the end of the quarter.

Kellogg came within one point of the Bengals again early in the *second period but before the Wild*cats scored again Lewiston had ran its tally to 26, giving them a 10-point lead.

The halftime score was 28-20.

Lewiston widened the margin in the third period, scoring 18 points to eight for Kellogg to make the count 46-28. The Bengals added 10 more in the final period making it 58-28.

The Bengals' second stringers took over the final four minutes and the game was close the rest of the way.

Sappington, who posted the tournament's individual scoring record Friday night with 35 points, was able to get only 12 Saturday against Lewiston. He and Poole shared scoring honors for Kellogg, each with 12.

Lewiston used an effective moving screen a good deal of the time and scored consistently from that formation.

MOST VALUABLE

BOSTON, March 18 (AP) — Big Bill Russell, the Boston Celtics' work-horse center, today was named the most valuable player in the National Basketball association by the U.S. Basketball Writers association.

Ken McBride, pitcher with the Los Angeles Angels, pitched a no-hit game in 1956 while hurling for Greensboro of the Carolina league.

Ohio State Smashes Kentucky To Move Into NCAA Meet Finals

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 18 (AP)—National champion Ohio State, with Larry Seigfried and All-America Jerry Lucas in the starring roles, smashed Kentucky 87-74 tonight to win the NCAA Mideast regional title. The all but incredible Lucas scored 33 points, set up a rebound monopoly under both backboards and caused two Kentucky defenders to fowl out in desperate efforts to bring him under control. For Lucas it was a sterling recovery from his career-low performance Friday night when he was held to nine points and Ohio State barely squeezed past Louisville 56-55 in the regional semifinal.

Seigfried aided the Buckeye superstar with 20 points, and time after time worked his way into the clear for good shots from the corners.

All in all, the Ohio State performances looked like the defending champions were ominously on the prowl for another title as they recorded win No. 31 in an unbroken string that extends back into the 1959-60 season.

Freedom Hall also saw Louisville outclass little Morehead (Ky.) State 83-61 for third place in the region.

Kentucky appeared able to stay with the Bucks in the early moments of the game, but poor shooting hundered the lower classmen, the Southeastern conference squad might have had to threaten the unbeaten Big Ten Kings.

Ohio State forged a 36-28 lead at the half, and poured it on from there.

John Turner scored 28 points to lead Louisville to victory over Morehead.

Louisville had no trouble with the Eagles and after the first three minutes began pulling away to win handily.

Morehead used the game to test its sophomores and had its entire squad in action before the first half ended.

Louisville, a relaxed team, got a 20-point lead after 12 minutes, was in front 47-23 at the half and coasted home.

Turner, the second high scorer in Louisville history, pitched in 18 points the first half and left the game with about four minutes to go.

Morehead's ace was Ed Nos who had 20 points.

Burley Woman Tops State Bowling Meet

POCATELLO, March 18 (AP) — Pat Burke, a Burley area bowler for the Mint-Cassia team, grabbed an all-events scratch score Pocatello housewife Jo Ann Benedetti today and took over the lead in the handicap singles in the Idaho women's bowling tournament.

The new leader fired a 664 series as she set her sights on the trophy and top cash award at conclusion of the meet April 1.

Mrs. Benedetti still held a lead in scratch singles with her 600 bowled last week-end, but Lois Kay of Twin Falls made a serious challenge Saturday and finished with 596 and second place.

Elaine Ingen and Lew Templeton of Mountain Home continued to lead the doubles with 1,194 handicap. There was no change in team events this week-end with Cash team from Pocatello on top with 2,798 handicap series.

The scratch-all events leader was still Shirley Denny of Boise with 1,697 for singles, doubles and team competition.

Lou Larson, another Boise keeler, moved into first place in the handicap-all events with 1,836. She topped the previous leader, Barbara Ferguson of Pocatello, who had 1,803.

Boise Bowler Leads Singles

BURLEY, March 18 (AP) — Vern Montgomery of Boise led in the Idaho state bowling tournament which was about two-thirds finished today.

Montgomery had a score of 727 in three games after bowling Saturday.

The tourney lasts six week-ends. They were three week-ends to go after Saturday and Sunday bowling.

In team scores the early Saturday leader was Chaney Service of Twin Falls with 3,133. Nel Anderson and Sam Osmod of Rupert led in doubles with 1,309.

Gary Goodwin of Blackfoot led in scratch scores from bowling three games each in singles-doubles and team competition with 1,871.

Wallace Robinson of Sugar-Salem led in handicap with 1,797 —his total scores from competition in the three events.

The Detroit Red Wings have suffered only one losing hockey season at home in the last 12 years.

Bearcats Surprise Kansas State 69-64

LAWRENCE, Kans., March 18 (AP)—Cincinnati's Bearcats, a gritty bunch that just refused to loose, smashed back in the late going and gained a 69-64 victory over Kansas State tonight in the championship game of the NCAA Midwest regional basketball tournament. It was the 20th victory in a row for Cincinnati this season. Texas Tech nipped Houston 69-67 in the consolation opener of the double-header, played before a crowd of 13,500.

Cincinnati advanced to the NCAA semifinals next Friday in Kansas City.

Rocked by K-State's aggressive play and with their 6-foot, 9-inch ace Paul Hogue almost useless because of fouls, the Bearcats from the Missouri Valley conference just seemed to make up their minds they would win.

The score was 33-33 at the half, but K-State was leading 44-37 before the Bearcats got going.

Cincinnati pulled even at 48-all with 10 minutes left on a jump shot by sophomore Tommy Thacker, then got their first lead 1½ minutes later on a turn-around jump shot by Carl Bauldin.

Once in front, the Bearcats were not to be caught as Thacker and Bob Wiesenhahn controlled the back boards.

Kansas state stayed within two points for the next few minutes. Then Hogue, who sat out much of the game with four fouls, slipped through for a layup, and Bouldin hit two free throws for a 60-54 Bearcat lead.

Weisenhahn led Cincinnati with 22 points. Larry Comley paced K-State with 16. Hogue finished with eight points.

Texas Tech blew an 11-point lead, then rallied in the final 10 minutes for their third-place victory over Houston.

Texas Tech, Southwest conference champion and a 78-75 loser to Cincinnati Friday night, finally put away the consolation match with Houston when a free throw by little Del Ray Mounts, field goals by Roger Hennig and Mac Percival on drives through the key, built a 65-59 advantage with two minutes left.

Ted Luckenbill hit two baskets and Jim Lemmon and Gary Phillips one each for Houston's comeback time ran out. But Tech's raiders held them all with Mounts and Hennig each dropping two free throws.

St. Joseph's Wins NCAA Regional Title

CHARLOTTE, N.C., March 18 (AP — St. Joseph's of Philadelphia stunned jittery Wake Forest with a 48-point first half tonight and rode the cushion to a 96-86 victory in the NCAA eastern regional basketball tournament finals and a place in the national semi-finals next Friday at Kansas City.

St. Bonaventure came from 17 points behind to trim Princeton 58-57 in the battle for third place.

Wake Forest outscored St. Joseph's 58-48 in a tremendous second half bid to pull victory out of the fire, but massive Leo Chappell couldn't do it alone, despite his 32 points that led all the Deacons. He also collected 16 rebounds.

The well-balanced Hawk attack produced six double figure scorers. Big men Jack Egan and Vince Kempton were hampered by foul troubles and the scoring burden fell to senior Frank Majewski and to slick little pair of sophomore guards, Bill Hoy and Jim Lynam.

Majewski scored 19 points and had nine rebounds. Hoy hit 20 points and Lynam 15. Between them they hit 17 of 23 foul shots as their classy floor game drove the pressing Deacons to commit fouls in a desperate effort to get the ball.

St. Bonaventure, third ranked nationally, got double figure scoring from five men after a sluggish first half that ended with the heavily favored New Yorkers trailing 42-31.

All-America Tom Stith o St. Bonaventure got 20 points, 18 in the last half. It gave him a varsity career total of 2,023 points. Teammate Fred Crawford had 19.

Despectacled Pete Campbell led the Tigers with 24, including 16 in the first half to get Princeton off winning. Al Mackerlein, the Tigers' "big" man at 6-4, scored 13 and did an outstanding job of rebounding with 18 of his team's 42 recoveries.

Utah Edges Past Arizona in Far West Playoffs

PORTLAND, Ore., March 18 (AP)—Uncanny Bill McGill aided by fine defensive play from his mates, led the University of Utah to an 88-80 NCAA Western regional basketball victory over Arizona State tonight. Loyola of Los Angeles edged Southern California 69-67 for third place.

Utah will play Cincinnati, the nation's No. 2 team, in the national NCAA semifinals next Friday at Kansas City.

On the opening play, seconds after the start, McGill hooked in the first of a dozen field goals and Utah began its quick pullaway.

Loyola's 6-foot, 6-inch Ed Bento fired a sparkling 21 points in the first half, hitting nine of 14 from the floor. He was closely guarded the second half by Bill Parsons but still finished with 22 points.

Southern Cal's John Rudometkin was next high with 24.

With two minutes left, Rudometkin put the Trojans in front 63-61, but Loyola's Bill Quinn dropped in two quick field goals and Jerry Grote added a pair of free throws with less than a minute left. Rudometkin got a goal with seven seconds left, but he missed on a free throw, and Loyola had the consolation victory.

Throughout the opening half, Utah was in undisputed control and led on rebounds, 33-21.

Arizona State, meanwhile, was cold. It missed the first nine shots it took from the floor. It ended the half with an average of .333 to Utah's .455. At halftime it trailed 46-23.

In the second period, Arizona State's Larry Armstrong tried to speed through for the sort of victory he helped fashion over Southern California Friday night. He did an impressive job, but it wasn't enough. The work of McGill, who had strong help from Rich Ruffell and Jim Rhead, was too much to overcome.

Arizona State tried to check McGill by putting one man on him and have another help out. It failed to hold him adequately and he wound up with 31 points and the tournament's most valuable player award.

Arizona State kept fighting and narrowed the gap to five points of which came while McGill sat out briefly — and with six minutes left, was only seven points back.

Then McGill, Ruffell and Rhead each hit again and Utah had halted the rally.

The all-tournament team chosen by sports writers and casters was: John Rudometkin, Southern Cal; Jerry Armstrong, Arizona State; Ed Bento, Loyola; Jim Rhead, Utah, and Billy McGill, Utah, with McGill also being named most valuable.

Wittenburg Is Small College Hoop Champ

EVANSVILLE, Ind., March 18 (AP) —In a battle of defenses, Wittenberg's tough Tigers out-controlled South Dakota State 82-78 tonight to win the NCAA college division basketball championship.

South Dakota State shaded Mount Saint Mary's 77-76 to take third place.

The finale was the lowest scoring game in the five-year history of the championship series here.

The victory closed the Tigers' campaign with a 16-game winning streak and a 25-4 record. Southeast wound up with a 25-3 mark.

With 6-4 Thrasher, a 6-foot, 2-inch freshman, wheeling in and around the tall Southeast Indians to score 10 points the Tigers clamped on a 24-22 halftime lead.

After seven minutes of the second half, Southeast led 30-29. In the next four minutes, each team added two points apiece.

Thrasher blazed again, touching off a Wittenberg surge that sent the Orioinns ahead, 39-37, to stay. Thrasher topped the Tigers with 14 points. Ron Gray was high for Southeast with 15 points.

Terry Sinttery's 15-foot basket in the last seconds gave South Dakota State its victory over Mount Saint Mary's.

Grambling Claims NAIA Cage Crown

KANSAS CITY, March 18 (AP — Grambling (La.) college tall and speedy Tigers, with four players scoring 20 or more points, bombarded Georgetown (Ky.) college, 95-75, for the championship of the National Intercollegiate NAIA basketball tournament tonight.

Northern Michigan, seeded No. 8 in the 32-team weeklong small college meet, defeated top-seeded Westminster of Pennsylvania 101-84 for third place.

Herschel West tossed in 25 points for Grambling. Teammates Willis Reed and Charles Hardnett each scored 21, and Rex Tippitt made 20.

It was an easy victory for the Tigers from Louisiana which ranked fifth nationally in the Associated Press poll of small colleges.

Grambling struck quickly for a 45-35 half-time lead, then led by as many as 28 points at one time in the second half.

Cecil Tuttle got 26 points for Georgetown, which was third-seeded.

North Gem Takes Class AA Hoop Championship With Victory Over Middleton

JEROME, March 18—Slender Randy Guidinger hit 21 points and had assists for the many more tonight in leading the North Gem Cowboys to the Idaho state AA basketball championship over Middleton's Vikings. The final score was 61-57, the new champions having to break away from a two-point lead late in the game. Sugar-Salem Diggers won the consolation title with an easy 80-38 decision over Post Falls. Guidinger, who hit 65 points in his three appearances, could not keep the Cowboys in front with his shooting and so turned to assists in the second half. He fouled out with 1:37 left in the game but he personally scored the four points that cinched the victory.

Middleton proved surprisingly strong against the poised and smooth Cowboys. They led only once during the game, that just as the first half ended. A free throw to open the third quarter boosted their lead to two points before North Gem claimed the lead for keeps.

Little Dick Zehr, a 5-foot, 6-inch guard who can't do anything but score, kept the Vikings in the fray until he picked up his fourth foul late in the third quarter. His four-minute stay on the bench saw North Gem race away to an eight-point lead. When the rusty headed Zehr reappeared with four minutes left in the game, Middleton went into a stall again and closed the count to 57-55.

Then Guidinger, who would much rather play offense than defense, split Middleton's defense for two layups off a semi-stalling pattern to boost North Gem safety ahead and with 16 seconds to go Rulon Winsten slammed the door with a free throw.

North Gem opened hot and jumped into a 7-1 lead before Middleton got back into contention at 11-9. They stayed close until the second period began. Then Middleton went four minutes without scoring as North Gem raced into a 28-16 lead.

Then Gerald Beck and sophomore whiz Dan Robinson quickly pushed Middleton back into the game with one second left in the half, Zehr hit a jump shot from the baseline to send Middleton in front 32-31.

The second half saw the Cowboys running up leads of eight points twice with Middleton always able to rally back to within one or two points.

*In the consolation game, Sugar-*Salem jumped off to a 7-0 lead and never let it get by. Ahead 17-8 at the end of the first period in the second quarter, were never threatened in a generally listless contest.

Wayne Dust led the scoring with 17 for Post Falls. But Sugar-Salem came up with a more balanced scoring attack. Roy Briggs hit 11 for the winners and Gilead Hirschi had nine points.

District Attorney Scored For Breaking Basketball Scandal at Tourney Time

NEW YORK, March 18 (AP)—Ken Norton, chairman of the NIT selection committee and coach at Manhattan the past 15 years, blasted the New York district attorney's office today for its handling of the latest basketball scandal investigation. "Why are they announcing this all now just when there are two big tournaments (the NCAA and the NIT) going on?" he asked. "They want to get as much publicity as possible out of it. They've been working on it for five months and they are just releasing the information bit by bit. This way, every college basketball player in the country is a suspect."

Norton commented after a disclosure Saturday by executive assistant district attorney David S. Worgan that hundreds of persons in many states have been questioned during the investigation. Worgan said a dozen people had been interrogated in the past several days. He would not identify any of those questioned or discuss the progress of the probe.

Although police sources said that 15 to 20 colleges from coast to coast might be involved, only three players have been charged with accepting bribes to shave points. Two gamblers are in custody.

Two of the three players have been identified. Both played for Seton Hall. They are Henry Gunter of New York and Arthur Hicks of Chicago. One player from the University of Connecticut has not been identified.

Three New York colleges are said by the district attorney's office to be involved.

"If any of my players had been in this they would have come to me," said Norton. "I wanted them to let me know anytime they were approached and I'd call the police immediately. I, myself received two anonymous phone calls last season. They mentioned something about getting rings in this country and Canada and whether I knew about points being chanced in a couple of games. I called the police immediately. Nothing more developed."

There was speculation as to the effect of the latest developments.

"There's no question that interest in the game will dwindle like it did after the 1951 scandals if this turns out to be a nationwide thing," said Norton, who is also president of the Metropolitan Intercollegiate Basketball association.

The two gamblers who have been taken into custody, described as representing a national syndicate, are Aaron Wagman, 28, and Joseph Hacken, 41, both of New York. They are charged with bribery and conspiracy in an attempt to fix college games.

Two games specifically are mentioned in the charges. One was on Feb. 9 when Dayton defeated Seton Hall 112-77 at Madison Square Garden. The other was March 1 when Colgate beat Connecticut 94-78 at Hamilton, N.Y.

The district attorney's office said the two Seton Hall players each received $1,000 for their part in the Dayton game while the Connecticut player was paid $1,500 for his efforts against Colgate.

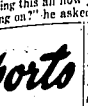

In 1951, a grand jury inquiry disclosed that 86 games had been fixed at Madison Square garden and in arenas in 22 other cities in 17 states.

Sports ROM ALL ANGLES

BY LARRY HOVEY

There is only one lasting impression that come out of the various tournaments conducted throughout the state this week-end. That is the zone defense is becoming predominant in the prep ranks. Nothing wrong with it, mind you, but it could be sadder. The first day at the triple A tournament in Boise and every team that Twin Falls took on the zone. Jerome, Valley, Kimberly, and Rupert Gem were only ones that tried the man-to-man. Since every northern team we've seen in the past three years has used the zone, it appears probable the zone was overworked there, too.

Hovey

There are instances where a zone defense is probably the only answer a team can give to another's offense. In the case of height and speed, weaving offenses and the like that. However, there is no use of playing the zone defense only for the sake of zoning. It is hard to blame a coach for going with the zone, especially in view of its popularity. However, a zone defense can't turn out a well rounded player. Defense is the hardest single thing to coach in basketball. From the time a boy starts up a basketball in the second or third grade, he is working on offense.

You can move and shoot by the time he hits high school. All a coach has to do here is run them through a few drills and spend a few days perfecting the timing on the offense. The boys can free up their way through a zonsed defense by shooting when- it's open.

Defensively, it takes a long time to make a squad. Bob Hilliard, who led the Twin Falls from '56 through '58, was a good defensive player. And every season's record is compliment to his ability. His last season here, coach Burt said before the season defense was his team's weakness. Throughout December and most of January, coach Hilliard spent 75 per cent of his time on defense and 25 per cent on free throw shooting.

Twin Falls hits its season average in offense the second game of the season and hovered around there all year. As we recall, the Bruins averaged about 58 points a game for the first half of the Southern Idaho conference. As the second half opened, coach Hilliard hammered his team ready defensively. In the second half, Twin Falls held foes to less than 45 points a game and in the tournament the Bruins went through unscathed, holding opposition to 37.

During February, Twin Falls played 50 per cent of the time on defense. It never affected their average from the first 10 games.

From that group of boys, coach Hilliard turned out 10 players that could have to be classed as strong on their physical capabilities would serve it. Three of them were on to college and in each case, their college coaches put them on the other team's top scorers. This is tribute to Hilliard in itself.

We consider if Hilliard had defensive the squad wasn't definitely bent, why not go with them. It would be doubtful that a defensive record would have gone as drastically as it did. They wouldn't have won any more games and maybe not even the district. However, there are times when that can play the game much better now because of his extra height and worry.

We would be willing to bet that someone like Gary Cooke, Idaho State, who has played zone all his career, would be hard pressed to keep someone on in his own size in a man-to-man game. Therefore, it appears logical that if Cook chooses a college that is blessed with many tall men, his row will be harder to hoe. Still, we doubt if Cook, because of his shooting touch, will have a lot of trouble cracking a first team.

Our complaint with the zone stems from the idea of an average prospect who might or might not be able to play college ball. They should all have equal opportunity but they don't.

From this angle, the man-to-man defense is better for the boy, better for spectators and should reward the coach more, too.

As one man stated after leaving the Boise Junior college gymn, "I guess some are all right for season play, but at a state tournament I think we're entitled to see some basketball."

The biggest man on the Cleveland Indians' roster is outfielder Walt Bond. He's 6-foot, 6 inches and weighs in at 228 pounds.

Basketball Loop Okays Two Changes

CHICAGO, March 18 (AP) — The new American Basketball league formally approved a switch of two franchise holders today as it opened a two-day session aimed at starting operations in 1961-62.

Representatives of the eight charter members sanctioned Abe Saperstein of Chicago, prime mover of the new pro circuit, as a Chicago franchise holder and George McKeon, a construction company owner, as operator of the San Francisco franchise.

Saperstein, originally scheduled to operate the San Francisco franchise, turned over all assets of that club to McKeon.

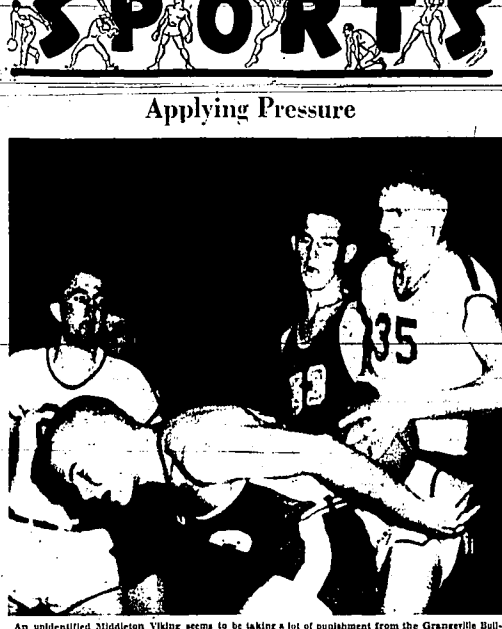

The move is intended to have Saperstein lead an expected battle for patronage in Chicago where the long-established National Basketball association also will start operations next fall.

McKeon attended the meeting, accompanied by the San Francisco club's general manager, Kevin O'Shea, former Notre Dame star, and coach, Phil Woolepert, former University of San Francisco coach.

Other representatives included Ken Krueger and a second signed coach, Jack McMahon of Kansas City; Harry Lynn, Washington, D.C.; Len Litman, Pittsburgh; Len Corbonlero, Los Angeles; Arthur Kim, Honolulu, and Marty Silverman, Cleveland.

Vermont Boy Cops National Junior Title

KINGFIELD, Maine, March 18 (AP)—Skip Bryan, 16-year-old speed merchant from Stowe, Vt., won the boys' National Junior Alpine slalom championship today on Sugarloaf Mountain's Narrow Gauge Trail.

Bryan's time of 1:29.4 for the half-mile, 50-gate course led a field of 75.

Placing second was Dave Ensen, 16, McCall, Ida., with a time of 1:32.3. Jack Morlock, 17, Kellogg, Ida., was third with 1:32.8, and Al Orsi, Jr., Stockton, Calif., winner of both the giant slalom and downhill races Thursday and Friday, fourth in 1:34.5.

Sandra Shellworth, 16, of Boise, Ida., won the girls championship as 14-year-old Ingrid Simonson of Yakima, Wash., missed by three-tenths of a second her bid to sweep the three-day competition.

Miss Shellworth flashed down the trail in 1:32.1 compared to a time of 1:32.4 for Miss Simonson, who had won the downhill and giant slalom events Thursday and Friday.

Toronto Bent on Beating Montreal

NEW YORK, March 18 (AP) — General Manager Muray (Muzz) Patrick of the New York Rangers predicted today that the Toronto Maple Leafs will end Montreal's five-year hold on the National Hockey league's most coveted team trophy—the Stanley cup.

"The Leafs have been a hungry team all year and I figure they'll go into the playoffs the same way," said Patrick. "After all, they haven't won the cup in 10 years. The Canndiens are liable to complacent as they were at times during the season. They could lose the first game or two and by the time they recover it may be too late."

The cup competition opens in Montreal and Toronto next Tuesday. The third place Chicago Black Hawks and the fourth-place Detroit Red Wings are the other teams in the best-of-seven semi-final round. The regular season ends Sunday night.

Famous Harpist Will Perform March 22 at Wood River Fete

KETCHUM, March 18—The concert of Mildred Dilling, internationally—famous—harpist, which will be held the evening of March 22 at the LDS church in Sun Valley, has been voted a bonus for members in the Wood River Music association.

Miss Dilling will play several of her more than 85 harps. She takes the instruments with her on the 25,000-mile annual concert tour of the United States in a specially-built stationwagon.

She keeps a few harps in Europe for her annual concerts abroad and some in her summer home in Woodstock, N.Y.

Her harps range in size from a miniature (with pedals) eight inches high to seven-foot tall concert grands, and in cost; aside from the priceless museum pieces, from $5,000 for the large gold concert harps to $25 for a small plastic model. Every harp she owns is playable.

She keeps about 65 in her New York apartment, and Harpo Marx has stated "It looks like an angel's cloakroom."

Miss Dilling has African and Ethiopian harps, Mexican harps, Irish harps, Welsh harps, a Scandinavian minne-singer's harp dating back to the 12th century, French harps, Egyptian harps, German harps, Burmese harps and English harps.

One of the most interesting is the first harp ever brought to America during the American revolution from Germany by Karl von Loesen.

Miss Dilling has hundreds of what she calls "objects d'harp." Almost everything in her apartment carries a harp motif—from petit point chair seats to salt and pepper shakers and jewelry.

Mrs. Ben Walker, secretary of the Wood River Music association, states tickets for the 1961-62 season may be purchased at the ticket window the evening of Miss Dilling's concert.

Three concerts will be held during the 1961-62 season.

Bible Story Told During Children's Church

Mrs. D. E. Acker, wife of the pastor of the First Southern Baptist church, tells a Bible story to a group of youngsters in children's church. This is a special program, provided in addition to Sunday school. It is held during the regular adult church service. It is designed to teach the 4- and 5-year-old children how a conventional church service is held. There are song sessions, silver offerings and announcements. The Bible story supplants the sermon. T.F. Church's Plan Aids Children In Preparing for Sunday Services

The First Southern Baptist church in Twin Falls has devised a Sunday morning program that is succeeded in drawing the attention and approval of both youngsters and parents.

It is called children's church. It has been underway for about six months, according to the Rev. D. E. Acker. He notes that the program isn't original with this church. It is quite common in the Southern Baptist churches in Texas, where he served until he moved here three years ago.

The object is to offer something for the younger children and at the same time limit attendance at the regular services to older children and adults.

Children's church is provided for the 4- and 5-year-old children. It is held at 11 a.m. during the regular church services.

The Rev. Mr. Acker explains that the children in this age group are seldom old enough to sit through a regular service and a sermon. This special program was created for them. It is geared to their age level and provides many experiences that prepare them for regular church attendance when they are older.

Actually, the program is a miniature church service, and the children take part in it just as adults take part in the regular church service. By taking a larger and more important role in the service, the children take greater interest in the entire church program.

The number of children who attend the service ranges from 10 to 15. They have their own ushers, song leaders, prayer leaders, church announcements and silver offering.

"We started the services because we felt there was a definite need for such a program," he says. "One of the major reasons was because the children of that age group tend to get restless during the regular hour-long church services held for adults. And the second reason was so the children would get training in what would be expected of them when they started church. They are taught reverence for church atmosphere and how to enter in the things that go on during the service."

He says the children take delight in having their own services

Woman Is Auctioneer in Magic Valley

Zula Mae Killinger holds up a copy of The Auctioneer magazine, one of her newest subscriptions. She is probably one of the first women auctioneers in this area. She notes that she has wanted to be an auctioneer since she was a young girl and first heard Col. Earl O. Walter, Filer, auction and-ioneer. Recently she attended an auctioneering school in Ogden. Wink at Young Girl Okay; She's Female Auctioneer

Amazing curiosity about auctioneering has led a 19-year-old Twin Falls girl to start a rather unusual part-time job—she's probably the first woman auctioneer in this area.

Zula Mae Killinger already has conducted her first farm auction. It might seem like an unusual post for a tall, attractive blond, but Miss Killinger takes it for granted. She has been interested in it since she was a young girl and a member of a 4-H club. She was always fascinated by the auctioneering lingo," she says. "I particularly liked to hear Col. Earl O. Walter auction livestock. When I was young it was the talk that fascinated me and I used to go to every auction that I could, just to see if I could understand them."

Miss Killinger had another interest that was unusual for a girl when she was a 4-H member. She raised hogs. She always took her bred gilts to the winter auction in Filer. It was during these auctions, when she was 12 or 13 years old, that she first became fascinated with auctioneering.

She says she never could learn to understand the auctioneer's chant, so last fall she took the reasonable step—she went to auctioneering school.

She went to the National Auction school at Ogden. The school is operated by Col. Bob Wall, a man who formerly operated a school in Stockton, Calif. Miss Killinger says Wall has been teaching auctioneering for 12 years and she was his first woman pupil. She says he was more amused than surprised.

The school lasted for two weeks.

U. N. Passing Through Most "Critical" Era

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., March 18 (UP)—The United Nations is passing through a critical period, perhaps the most dangerous in its 16 years of existence.

And the position of the United States, within the United Nations, has changed to a point where American officials have been forced to consider the possibility of a hostile majority and defeats on some major issues—notably the question of admitting Red China.

The leader of one delegation says, "I think the United Nations is in danger of disintegration."

Paul-Henri Spaak, Belgian diplomat who presided over the general assembly in 1946, said recently, "The path it is following disturbs me. It will soon be an organization having nothing in common with the original organization set up in San Francisco."

In his first news conference as U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, Adlai E. Stevenson said "the hour is too late, the times too dangerous for name calling and rhetorical violence."

As to the American position, there were two significant statements recently.

Sens. Wayne Morse, D., Ore., and George D. Aiken, R., Vt., who served on the American U.N. delegation last year, said in a report to the senate foreign relations committee:

"If the day comes when the United States is faced with a hostile majority, that situation will be a reflection of a deteriorating world order too serious as to make

Special Indian Dances Rehearsed By Order of Arrow for Programs

Order of the Arrow members from this area frequently have presented specialized Indian dances at public gatherings. Now they are adding a new dance to their repertoire, the ghost dance.

This dance is one of the most unusual of the American Indian dances. It was developed rather late in the 19th century. The dance was inspired by the new religion that developed among the Paiute Indians in 1889. The re- ...ligion was founded by the prophet ...messiah, Wovoka, who lived at Walker Lake, Nev.

The dance is symbolic of the desire of Sitting Bull and the Sioux nations. It was practiced by the Indians as a method to see visions and enter into the new religion. Often it was mistaken for a war dance and, for this reason, led to the Wounded Knee battle where Sitting Bull and a vast majority of the remaining Sioux Indians were slaughtered by the United States cavalry.

The ghost dance is just one that will be featured at the Order of the Arrow conclave at Sun Valley, according to Archie Braun, area adviser to the order.

Brown predicts that about 200 members of the Order of the Arrow, a camping society, will be at the Sun Valley meeting. Lodges from southern Idaho will be represented—Idaho Falls, Pocatello, Boise, Nampa-Caldwell and Twin Falls. The Twin Falls Ma-I-Shu lodge will be the host.

Main purpose of the conclave is to elect officers and plan events and program for the 1961-62 year. Members will stay in chalets at Sun Valley.

The Indian dances will be presented at 9 p.m. between the Sun Valley hospital and the chalets. The ghost dance will highlight the evening. It will be followed by the devil dance, eagle dance, plume dance and war dance.

After the dances Martin Mockford, national secretary of the Order of the Arrow, New Brunswick, N.J., will speak.

Saturday morning Johnny Myles, Portland, Ore., prominent interpreter of Indian dances, will give instructions and demonstrations on Indian dancing and costuming. This will be followed by a swimming session.

That afternoon there will be panel discussion on plans for the coming year. This will be follow-

Valley Cowboy Hopefuls "Tune up" In Jerome Area for Rodeo Season

JEROME, March 18—Winter baseball as practiced is a tropical tuneup for the big leagues during winter's reign. A winter rodeo, as practiced by a small, hardy and determined group of Magic Valley rodeo buffs at the county fairgrounds here, is something else.

During the winter a group of youthful practitioners of the specialized skills of bronc and bull-riding are "tuning up" every Sunday for the coming Idaho Cowboy Association-sanctioned rodeo season. The weekly affair draws rodeo aspirants from as far as Pocatello and Boise, and has developed a small but loyal band of fans—parents, wives, girl friends and hardy spectators—who brave the cold to watch.

Weekly attendance once topped 200, but usually between 100 and 150 persons congregate to watch the highly informal but enthusiastic goings-on.

The program began in November, 1960, when two Jerome cowboys, Ronald Koll and Curt Bartholomew, arranged to use the Jerome fairgrounds arena for the weekly event. Each entrant pays a $7 fee, the money providing $5 for a winner's purse and $2 to defray expenses for arena use. The group pays 50 cents per month per head to keep rodeo stock at the fairgrounds.

3-Year-Old "Wild Horse" Likes to Ride in Pickup Truck

Art Bally, Hansen, watches as his "wild horse" gets out of a pickup truck. The horse's name is "Squirt." He is a 3-year-old bay that Bally bought when the horse was about a year-old. He ran with a band of wild horses in northern Nevada until some local men ran him down and roped him. He was later sold to Bally for $15, cooperative pupil. (Staff photo-engraving)

The horse disproves some of the fables told about wild horses. This horse will board a truck any time, any place, just so he can jump in it. Bally says this is the first horse he ever trained. He says "Squirt," after the first training session, has been a

Wild Horse Purchased Three Years Ago Disproving "Fables" of Range Animals

HANSEN, March 18 — The wild horse purchased by Arthur Bally three years ago disproves all the tales told about wild horses. "Squirt" is probably one of the best natured horses in the county and has as much "horse sense" as any other five horses.

Bally bought the 3-year-old bay when he was about a year old. Local men had captured him on the desert between the Idaho-Nevada border and Contact. They ran him down and roped him.

Bally was looking for an inexpensive horse, and paid only $45 for "Squirt."

When Bally first approached him in a corral, the young horse was as skittish as a deer. He practically jumped the pole fence, but Bally roped him and got a halter on him. Then the lessons began.

Bally admits he might have chosen a tamer horse. He had never trained a horse before, but he owned him and figured he might as well go ahead.

Bally convinced the young horse at the outset that he was stronger than the horse, but he had to cheat. When he was trying to teach him to lead, the horse balked. So Bailey had someone drive a tractor just ahead of him. The lead rope was tied to the drawbar. When the horse balked Bally would let go of the rope and the tractor would take over. The horse thought Bally was pulling the rope and decided it was easier to lead than fight.

Within six months Bally had the young horse in harness and walking behind him, teaching him how to respond to the harness. He was riding him when Squirt was about 2 years old.

The horse has turned out to be extremely gentle and displays plenty of sense. Bally says the horse has been caught in barbed wire more than once. Rather than fight the wire, like most horses, and cut himself to shreds, the young horse has waited patiently for Bally to rescue him.

Bally says the horse also will stop when he is being ridden if he picks up some wire or a nail in a hoof. As soon as he feels it, he stops instantly.

With "Squirt" there is no need for a loading chute on the Bally farm. The horse simply jumps in the back of a pickup truck. A small portion of well-trained saddle horses will do this, but not with the lack of concern that "Squirt" demonstrates as he jumps into the metal bed of a pickup.

Bally says the horse will ride back there with just a short stock rack on the side, a rack that doesn't even extend above his withers. "He just spraddles out his legs and braces himself and enjoys the ride."

Now Bally rides the horse several times a week and uses him as a saddle horse and pack horse during the hunting season. Bally has two young children and says the way the "wild" horse is developing he could be a good horse for children.

Loading "Wild Horse" Is Easy Task

Loading spooky horses can be a trial. This "wild horse" disproves what is sometimes rumored about wild horses. Bally says the young horse has none of the senseless fears often harbor of inanimate objects. The first time he led him to the truck the young boy nonchalantly jumped into the pickup. Bally says the horse will ride there with just a short rack. (Staff photo-engraving)

J.G. Bradley Thinks Gift to Industry Fund Is Way to Invest in T.F. Future

On Feb. 28 the Twin Falls industrial development park fund received a healthy shot in the arm when J. G. Bradley, a longtime resident of the community, donated $1,000.

This was Bradley's way of stating that he had a firm belief in the community, and particularly the way in which it is developing.

Bradley is a senior vice president of the Twin Falls Bank and Trust company, the organization he has been affiliated with since he came here in 1908.

Bradley notes that in his travels about the United States he has seen many communities, some that have grown gracefully and some that have grown awkwardly.

Many of these communities have grown without planning and for that reason the haphazard growth of industry has hurt certain sections of these towns, he believes.

Bradley says the original industrial site in Twin Falls was a success and he believes this is the way to assimilate industry in a town this size.

"The successful growth of the community can come about only with orderly procedure," he says.

He feels that supporting a program such as the industrial site fund is just one of the things community citizens can do to help the town grow. "The returns from such an investment won't be realized immediately, but they will in the future and are necessary for the community."

"I'm proud of Twin Falls for going about this problem in an orderly fashion," he says.

Bradley traveled quite a bit before he got to Twin Falls in 1908. He was born in Cornell, Ill. His father was postmaster of the small community, about 90 miles south of Chicago.

Bradley moved from Illinois when he was very young. His father decided to move to the Black hills of South Dakota and ranch. They moved west in the 1880's.

The ranch they moved to was near Hot Springs, in the southern portion of the Black hills. Bradley grew up on this ranch and attended public schools in Hot Springs.

After he finished public schools he entered Black Hills college in Hot Springs. When he finished school he held various jobs, some with county offices and a local bank.

Bradley worked in that area for a few years and then decided to move further west. He came to Twin Falls in 1908 and immediately went to work for the Twin Falls Bank and Trust company.

He first worked as a bookkeeper and in 1920 became a vice president. He now is senior vice president in charge of investments.

Bradley has been a member of the Twin Falls Masonic lodge No. 45, AF and AM, for 43 years. He also served as master in 1917.

Bradley married the former Mayme Swan in 1943. They have one son, Robert, who is a junior at Shattuck military school in Fairbault, Minn.

Youth Injured

HANSEN, March 18—Eddie Lucich, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Lucich, has returned from a Salt Lake City hospital where he underwent brain surgery.

Eddie was playing basketball when he was struck and lost his vision and became unconscious. He was taken to Twin Falls and then to Salt Lake City where it was found he had a cyst causing pressure on the brain.

Some of the bone around the cyst as well as the cyst was removed and a plate was placed over the opening. He has recovered and is convalescing at his home here.

New Riding Sports Planned This Summer at Frontier Field

Roping calves for sport will be a weekly event this summer at the Frontier Riding club. The event will be available to all members who want to try it. Here, Kenneth Royer, club manager, has a Holstein calf roped in the arena at Frontier field. (Staff photo-engraving)

Kenneth Royer shows the equipment to be used for a riding sport new to Magic Valley. The sport is "cowboy polo" and is played with five riders to a team. (Staff photo-engraving)

Calf-Roping Sessions to Bring Spirit Of Rangeland to T.F. Field in Summer

The spirit of the rangeland — personified often as dust kicking up around horse and rider, an outflung lariat and a bolting, elusive calf — will come to Twin Falls next summer.

Kenneth Royer, manager of the Frontier Riding club, says calf-roping sessions will be a regular activity at the arena. Riders from both town or farm will be able to participate in this activity, and it won't matter if they ever threw a rope before or not, Royer added.

Royer said he is adding calf-roping activity to others available to club members in response to requests of townspeople.

"Many of these people used to be able to rope a steer," said Royer, "and they want to be able to do it again. But still others never threw a rope before and they want to learn. Anybody will be able to participate."

Royer says he has another riding activity he will introduce this summer. It is called "cowboy" polo and is popular among riding clubs in the Southwest and in California. Five persons make up a team and each is assigned a definite zone in the arena. Only two persons compete for the ball at a time, until it is hit into another zone.

A volleyball is used and is struck with a polo stick. Royer says he has received inquiries about "cowboy" polo from riding clubs in other Magic Valley areas, and competition between the clubs might make for an interesting spectator sport, besides being one in which individuals can participate.

The two additional activities, calf-roping and polo, are only part of the services people can enjoy during the summer, Royer noted.

Others are jamboree sessions, square dances on horseback, drills, trail rides into the mountains, riding lessons for children and adults, barrel racing and horse shows.

Membership in the Frontier Riding club approximates 200 persons. Many members are children or teen-agers. When the club was formed, there were eight adults.

I. Frank Henry, Kimberly, board of directors member, says the club began in 1959. It's name was the "Nubbin-Grabbers." These eight rode together on week-ends, or whenever possible, and the humorous choice of a name referred to the saddle horns.

Soon other riders joined the original group. Some of these rode English style. Western style riding was preferred by the originals, but the English riders were cordially accepted.

Before the end of the first year, the group changed its name to the Frontier Riding club. Almost from the first, it has stimulated interest among members and others in quality-type horses and horsemanship. It has been instrumental in bringing horse shows to Magic Valley.

This first show occurred when some members returned from a trip East with American saddle horses. These "fine-steppers" were spoken for partially before the members returned with them. All were soon sold.

So pleased were the proud owners that they held a horse show, the first of its kind, in the Twin Falls ballpark in 1962. Some of the descendants of these saddlers still are in the valley. One of the best, Grand Stonewall, a stallion owned by Henry, died only last year at 23 years of age.

Among those who went to Kentucky for these saddlers were Henry, Sam Proctor and the late Dr. H. R. Groom.

In conjunction with the horse show was the formation of an organized drill team, stimulated by the club and handled by Danny Rogerson, now farming in Eden. Rogerson organized the team. It was prepared to serve the community during the war years and was called Troop No. 8, Twin Falls county battalion.

The team participated in the horse show at the ball park. Drills, Henry noted, were rehearsed at the location now occupied by Morningside school. The property then was owned by the late J. W. Porter, Idaho supreme court justice.

This show was so successful that the Twin Falls Junior Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the first show, also sponsored a second in 1962.

This drill team became what is now the Twin Falls county mounted sheriff's posse. The first captain of the posse was the late Curtis Turner.

Present site for the club was purchased in 1943, said P. C. Shenberger, present chairman of the board of directors and attorney for the club.

The site was 80 acres and has been known since as Frontier field. To become legal owners of the property, the club was incorporated and the first president was John Feldhusen. Dell Tucker was vice president and Mrs. Frank Kennedy, secretary.

During the next two years, buildings, stalls, arena and caretaker's home were constructed. Horse shows were held and some of these were called by visiting judges among the top three in the entire Intermountain West.

After a few more years, the city of Twin Falls negotiated with the club and bought the property as part of its long-range-park program. The south 40 acres are being used for the new national guard armory and new fire substation. The north 40 acres is where the club will continue its activities.

These services also include facilities for leaving horses the year around, stalls, pasture, feeds, shoeing and whatever may be asked of Royer, who performs many of these services winter and summer.

Still another service is the horse sale on May 7, at which time people will have an opportunity to bid on from 75 to 100 horses.

Present members of the board in addition to Shenberger and Henry are Donald Rush, A. House, Roy Jesser and Dr. O. W. Warner. Mrs. Joe Fix is secretary-treasurer.

New Cattlemen's Association To Be Formed at Meet Here

The Twin Falls Cattlemen's association, a new county cattle producers organization, will be formed at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the council chambers at city hall.

The constitution and by-laws will be submitted at that time and a temporary board of directors elected.

The association has been formed so cattlemen from the Twin Falls area can be represented on various land Patrick. Castleford, chairmeetings regardless of whether they belong to other associations. The association also will have the function of coordinating interests. Seven purposes of the association have been listed in the constitution.

The first is to stimulate the improvement and promotion of the cattle industry; second, to offer rewards for arrests made and convictions obtained involving cattle thefts from members of the association; the association will also carry on educational programs and tours.

I-L will give recognition to industry leaders and develop leadership among its members; it will stress the preservation of independence in individual operation by mutual association for the common good, and finally, representatives will serve on county extension advisory committees and other public agencies when it is requested or desirable.

The tentative constitution was formulated last week at a meeting attended by Jay Cobb, Filer; J. W. Robertson, Buhl; Richard Noh; Rogerson; Ted Crockett, Hansen; Tom Howerton, Twin Falls; Rotman, and C. W. Daigh, secretary. Others who assisted are Roy Smith and Duane Ramseyer, both Twin Falls.

Any county producer of beef cattle will be eligible for membership. Provision has been made for associate and honprary memberships.

The governing body will be seven directors elected from the Cedar butte area west of Salmon Falls creek, Rogerson, Hansen, Twin Falls, Filer, Salmon tract and Buhl-Castleford.

"Resistant" Alfalfa Varieties May Be Solution to Area Pea Aphid Problem

A possible solution for the pea aphid problem in Magic Valley is in planting alfalfa varieties that may be resistant to those green, sap-sucking insects.

This possible solution is indicated in a progress report made by John J. Kolar, Twin Falls, forage specialist at the Twin Falls experiment station.

Kolar said some varieties of alfalfa in Twin Falls and Aberdeen experiment stations last fall seemed to be as heavily populated with pea aphids at the third crop as others, but made more growth, had better green color and made normal recovery after second cutting.

These seemingly resistant varieties, said Kolar, are DuPuits, Alfa, Lahontan and Moapa.

Since these varieties were planted on test plots for research on other matters, the yields at third cutting were tabulated only incidentally to reveal any information about pea aphid damage. Surprisingly, the forage yields on these varities at third cutting approached the tonnage received at second cutting.

"Although the difference between the yields of the varieties may be due to other causes," said Kolar, "the possibility that some varities may have resistant qualities to the pea aphid can't be discounted."

Ranger, Grimm, Vernal, Ladak and Buffalo—all recommended for use in Idaho—seemed to suffer more against the onslaught of pea aphids that have swarmed into Magic Valley fields for two years.

More work has to be done on this problem, said Kolar, who will make additional studies this season if the pea aphids again invade Magic Valley and the Aberdeen farm areas.

Kolar advanced some theories which may offer an explanation about the observed phenomena at both experiment stations.

He said pea aphids come in many strains or biotypes. The seemingly resistant alfalfas are new types in Idaho and the pea aphids here may find these alfalfas and some other alfalfas planted in southern Idaho for a long time may have lost their "resistance" to the pea aphids that survived or formed into a new "race."

This theory has been somewhat substantiated in other parts of the United States. A letter from the University of Arizona disclosed research personnel had a difficult time finding alfalfas resistant to the pea aphids there.

Part of this letter from Arizona pointed out that "plants classified as resistant to pea aphids in California were found susceptible when grown and tested in Arizona with local pea aphid populations."

It also was pointed out that alfalfas that are pea aphid resistant are difficult to find because there are so many biotypes of pea aphids. And these insects keep changing their race every so many years, and in this way overcoming the resistant qualities of the alfalfa.

For instance, Ranger alfalfa has been resistant to pea aphids in one part of the United States, but certainly not in others. And certainly not in Idaho.

This theory of Kolar's, and he insists it is only theory at this time, indicates that if pea aphids are here to stay, varieties of alfalfas planted here may have to be switched every so many years as new strains of pea aphids develop.

This type of situation has happened in Midwestern oat fields. As a strain of oats resistant to stem rust is found, in time it becomes susceptible and develops another strain of oats resistant to stem rust. The insect changes its characteristics over a period of years and "learns" to attack effectively the resistant qualities in the grain.

This also has happened with chemicals, chemicals having to be changed as the insects develop "survival" characteristics.

Slowdown Noted For Declines in Dairy Cow Total

WASHINGTON, March 16 (UP) — Government farm economists believe there'll be a slowdown this year in the long decline in the number of dairy cows on American farms. Dairy cows numbers have declined steadily since 1945, except in 1953 and 1954.

Officials forecast a change in the trend on the basis of a recent report showing an upturn in the number of young heifers on farms. The Jan. 1 inventory of one and two-year-old heifers was substantially above average in comparison with the total number of dea farms.

Experts say this indicates th the number of young cows coming into milking herds will be offset by high this year and next.

The department predicts total milk p 1961 will increase by more than the 1960 increase. 1960 production was just under 12 billion pounds increase of 900 million pounds 1959.

National Farm Organization Forming Chapters Through Magic Valley Area

MURTAUGH, March 18 — The latest farmers awakening, like many others since, is taking place in southern Idaho into pollution to get themselves more control over prices they have more control over prices they receive for their crops, took some action last week at a farmers' meeting in Murtaugh high school.

The "shape" of this action, the National Farmers Organization, a midwestern in origin and character, is only two years.

Its aim, according to Four Magic Valley farmers who explained its program and signed up some new members from the area, is to give farmers control of the prices they receive for their crops.

Prices for one crop, such as wheat, will be different in areas because of the varying cost of production.

The invitation that started the NFO in Minidoka county, said Wojcik, was when a group of dissatisfied dairymen wanted to start some organization, similar to the spud bargaining association, that would help them get higher prices for their milk. The organization in mind was to be called a milk-shippers organization.

Some of the farmers in the Northside project had heard about the NFO, and after some correspondence, a representative was sent into Magic Valley. Impressed by the representative from Iowa, Minidoka county farmers asked for more information, and soon another NFO representative visited the area and explained the national organization's aims and legal authority.

A charter was granted in Minidoka county when 25 farmers signed up. Now farmers are signing up in Twin Falls county, as last week in the Murtaugh high school, and perhaps others will join after a meeting scheduled Saturday in Wendell.

Wojcik, and the other members of the organization, received some sharp questions about details of the membership agreement between farmers and the national organization.

Many farmers in the audience were suspicious about the authority of a centralized group of directors in the Midwest. Still others questioned the dues required. Other farmers wanted to know what would happen to the program if the banks, which hold many chattel mortgages on crops, refused to wait for repayment of loans while the organization was going through a holding action.

Wojcik replied that the board of directors is elected from county groups, who send representatives to the national. He explained that all directors are farmers, otherwise they can't hold office.

As for dues, as the national gains strength and controls a commodity it will undertake a position on price unless it can control the commodity, the dues will be derived from one per cent of the gross sales of that crop. This will happen only when the marketing association is enabled to sign contracts for the farmers.

As to the support of the banks, Wojcik and the others stated that Midwestern banks and even ministers are supporting the organization.

To date, the national hasn't signed any contracts with any processor on any commodity. One is expected in July in the Midwest, but the NFO is keeping this one a secret until the holding action begins.

Wojcik said the national has made a few test holding actions in the Midwest this season, particularly in soybeans, and the surprising number of non-member farmers supported these periodic test-holding actions, he noted.

In principal, most farmers at the meeting seemed to agree with the purposes and the needs for such an organization. And several farmers signed membership agreements at three years duration. However, some expressed fears that power concentrated by a board of directors perhaps might lead to attitudes similar to those happening in some large labor unions.

Some reassurance was offered by Wojcik and others told the farmers no political purposes could be exploited by the national, nor could it engage in any type of business enterprise.

These were prohibited by the Capper-Volstead act. About 12 Midwestern states now have representation in the NFO, added Wojcik, and present plans call for organizing Oregon farmers as well as those in Washington, Idaho and Utah.

Officers of the national organization, all reported as farmers, are Oren Lee Staley, Rea, Mo.; Robert Casper and William Ryner, both Winterset, Ia., and Hal Noland, Adair, Ia.

World Harvests Expected to Set New High Marks

WASHINGTON, March 18 (UP) — The agriculture department estimated this total world harvests of farm products will set another all-time record in the 1960-61 season.

The department added, however, that the increased world population will cancel the gains in production. On a per capita basis, production is not expected to exceed last year's level, which was slightly below the record high of the 1958-59 season.

World trade in farm prices probably will increase in the 1960-61 season, the department reported. But this will not be enough to prevent increases in surplus stocks of wheat, feed grains, coffee and several other agricultural products.

The government forecast increased production this season in all parts of the world except eastern Europe. But reduced production also was expected to drop in Latin America, the Far East and the communist bloc nations.

Several Significant Issues Revealed At Bean Commission Meeting in T.F.

Members of the Idaho bean commission revealed at a meeting last week in Twin Falls several small, but significant issues. One of these signaled potential distress for the Idaho bean industry.

On the pleasant side, for livestock operators as well as for bean growers concerned with curly top, was the rains reseeding program. This program is aimed at eliminating leafhopper host plants from the desert areas, and involves the seeding of range grasses to take the place of mustards, Russian thistle and other such weeds.

Don Murphy, Twin Falls, commission member and vice-president of Cornell Seed company, said he had received correspondence from Idaho's congressional delegation in Washington, that for the first time the bureau of land management's budget included funds for the reseeding program.

In the past, funds were added to the regular budget and "tacked" on as emergency funds. Now, according to Murphy, the reseeding program is not considered an emergency item at all. He felt sure it would be renewed each year for the duration of the beet leafhopper eradication program.

The distressing piece of information offered by commission members involved the new admin istration's relief and disaster program throughout some area in the United States.

This program is affecting the Idaho bean market, according to William Morgan, Burley, commission member. The relief program is making it hard to sell any Great Northerns in areas where they previously have been sold.

The administration's program calls for the distribution of surplus foods held under the commodity credit corporation. These surpluses are distributed among the needy and the unemployed in designated disaster areas, explained Morgan.

Michigan pea beans have been in surplus all season, and the farmers in that state placed a large part of their crop under price support categories. Their expiration date, to redeem the loan, was Feb. 28 in Magic Valley, the expiration date is April 30.

At any rate, said Morgan, the government asked for beans to supply the disaster areas, and specified only Michigan pea beans.

They made three purchases of these beans, which totaled over 500,000 bags, and then distributed these into cities in the south, the west and even in the midwest. In principle, the idea seems good, added some commission members.

The program enables the needy to get relief, and some of the surpluses are then eaten, instead of rotting in storage, adding costs to taxpayers.

However, said Morgan, it is almost impossible to sell a Great Northern bean in many of these areas, and the Idaho bean industry is liable to suffer for years on this account.

In some areas, he pointed out, the beans shipped into the disaster zones are more than the people can eat.

"Besides," he noted, "how can the government tell how many beans the people will want to eat?"

He thought the government could and should ask for competitive bids on other variety of beans, instead of taking so huge an amount out of Michigan.

The Idaho bean commission, in reviewing the situation, decided it will protest the action in the near future.

Containers Ready At County Agent For Soil Samples

JEROME, March 18 — W. O. Priest, Jerome county agent, says farmers who want their soil tested should pick up containers and directions for taking samples at the county agent's office.

Priest said the soil testing is an extension service and is available to all the farmers.

Under this program the samples are taken by the farmers and sent to the university where they are tested for soil reaction, organic matter, phosphorous and potash. It takes about two weeks for the results to be received.

He emphasizes that samples should be taken early in the season so results can be secured before the time arrives to apply fertilizer.

Estimate Given For Supplies of Wool in Nation

WASHINGTON, March 18 (UP) — The agriculture department today estimates 1960 production of shorn and pulled wool at a total of 308 million pounds, an increase of two per cent above 1959 and up 12 per cent from average production between 1949 and 1958.

Production of shorn wool in 1960 is estimated at 267 million pounds, up three per cent from 1959.

Mixed Grain Experiment Shows Wheat Decreases

Mixed grain trials at the Kimberly experiment station show that the per cent of barley increases while wheat decreases between planting and harvest time.

Howard Roylance, Boise, extension service agronomist, visited the Times-News office last week and reported results of a one-year trial.

Roylance said the trials indicated the amount of barley, barring climatic factors detrimental to barley production, will be greater, percentage-wise, at harvest than other grains planted with it in the same field.

In the trials, several different mixtures of wheat and barley, and wheat, barley and oats were planted. In all cases, barley increased at the expense of other grains.

This is the kind of information farmers and seed dealers have wanted to determine how much wheat can be planted with other mixed grains. The feed always has been that wheat will exceed the permitted percentage by weight at harvest time.

In one trial, 33 per cent Lemhi wheat was planted with 67 per cent Bonneville barley. At harvest time, by weight, Lemhi had dropped to 21.9 per cent, and the barley had increased to 78.08 per cent.

In another trial, 67 per cent Bonneville barley was planted with 33 per cent Thatcher wheat. The harvest produced 85 per cent barley and 15 per cent wheat.

The same kind of results were found when three-way mixes were used. In one case, 40 per cent barley was planted, 28 per cent oats and 22 per cent wheat. At harvest, the barley had increased to 57 per cent, oats decreased to 28 per cent, and wheat to 15 per cent.

Roylance added that it would appear from the results of one year, and the prevailing weather conditions, a 65 per cent Lemhi and 35 per cent wheat (Lemhi) could be planted to get the 25 per cent wheat prescribed last year by the ASCS. In order to be on the safe side, however, and because only one year's results are available, he suggested a mixture of not more than 30 per cent wheat and 70 per cent barley.

More Eggs Due

WASHINGTON, March 18—The crop reporting board has issued a report indicating there will be a continued increase in egg production later this year.

The board's report says that chicks hatched in February for later use in egg flocks were up 27 per cent from the record-low hatch of last February.

Wildlife Is to Enjoy but Not to Destroy

Prize-winning essayist Nancy Hilliard, Troy, epitomizes National Wildlife week, March 18-25, with her statement, "The greatest value to be attained by anyone from wildlife is nature's secret of joy and of life . . . We do not really own wildlife: Mother Nature just lent it to us to enjoy and to use—but not to destroy." The Idaho Wildlife federation and affiliated clubs sponsor the essay contest and cash prizes annually in conjunction with the national observance of National Wildlife week, which always coincides with the first day of spring. Gem High School Essayists Highlight Purposes for National Wildlife Week

By JIM HUMBIRD
Idaho Fish and Game Department

With the proclaiming of National Wildlife week, March 19 to 25, by both Gov. Robert E. Smylie and mayors around the state, it is a good time to dig into the whys and wherefores of the program.

Some of the reasons are given by a dozen students from widely scattered areas, high school juniors and seniors who won top places in statewide essay competition on the subject, "Wildlife Values—What They Mean to Me."

The news columns already have announced the results of the conservation essay contest sponsored again this year by the Idaho Wildlife federation and its affiliated clubs.

While uniform excellence of work by both juniors and seniors made judging exceedingly difficult, especially when choosing among the many fine entries for honorable mention prizes, it is noteworthy that winners and runners-up represent eight Idaho cities. These are Caldwell, Driggs, Parma, Salmon, Sandpoint, Troy, Twin Falls and Wallace.

Governor Smylie keynoted the theme in his proclamation by saying, "The 1961 Wildlife week focuses attention on the necessity of long-range planning to provide for multiple-use of our natural resources through balanced conservation planning for the future."

Idaho's younger generation said much the same thing in different words in their essays.

The history and purpose of National Wildlife week began in 1938 when it was proclaimed by the late President Roosevelt. It has been sponsored annually since that time by the National Wildlife federation and the state groups that belong to the federation. Purpose of the week is to draw attention to the nation's natural resources and to the broad and pressing problems of conservation.

This idea is presented forcefully in what amounts to a prose poem by Nancy Hilliard, tenth grader at Troy, who won first prize in the senior division of the essay contest as she wrote:

"In my opinion, the greatest value to be attained by anyone from wildelife is nature's secret of joy and of life. When a person discovers this secret, his own life becomes happier and more beautiful.

"Therefore, what right do we have to destroy nature's handiwork? We do not really own wildlife: Mother Nature just lent it to us to enjoy and to use, but not to destroy. Wildlife is greater than we are; it owns something that we can never own because we are not a part of wildlife . . . Let us all strive harder to preserve our wildlife, and let us try to discover nature's secret and better our own lives because of it."

The National Wildlife federation is an association of state federations or leagues and their affiliated local conservation clubs. The total membership exceeds two million persons. It is not a government agency, but a citizen's organization and has been responsible for informed public opinion leading to much important legislation and to many action programs in the conservation field. It is financed by civic-minded persons throughout the nation, who every year send small contributions in exchange for wildlife conservation stamps.

"I think most of us has heard and can readily understand the old argument set forth for conservation of wild animals and plants," writes Marilyn Muench, Salmon high school senior, in the essay that won second prize in the statewide contest. "To preserve certain species from extinction, to provide pleasure for Idaho residents, to attract out-of-state sportsmen, to maintain Idaho's rugged young beauty. However, there is more—much more—to this story."

The care of vast timber, mineral, water, wildlife and grazing resources of the public estate should be of equal concern to us since we depend upon them to satisfy many of our everyday living needs. Almost everyone shares in the enjoyment of these lands and in the consumption of some of their diverse products; not the least of which are game and fish. With this stake in them, it follows that we should share in the responsibility for their protection.

Gail Johnson, 11th grader at Caldwell senior high school, made the same point in different verbiage, and took third place while doing it.

"If suddenly all of our forests, fields and streams were closed to the public," she writes, "a great number of people would realize that these areas supplied them with one of the best recreational sources they could possibly know. They might learn to respect the laws and appreciate the advantages of this great land and the work being done to conserve our national resources."

Altogether, there were 42 seniors and 58 juniors entered as state finalists. The first three winners in the junior division of the *essay contest were Randall Wil*son, seventh grade, Twin Falls, first; Kathy Krelkamp, seventh grade, Twin Falls, second, and Helen Gruber, eighth grade, Wallace, third.

Honorable mentions were—senior division, Jim Thompson, Sandpoint; Eileen Clark, Salmon, and Paul Nelson, Troy. Junior division, Fred Snook, Salmon; Jim Phipps, Parma, and Myrna Riggs, Driggs.

If National Wildlife week serves no other purpose than that of reminding people of their vital stake in this public estate, it will have accomplished much. Beyond this will be its educational contribution in alerting people to the need for learning more about the work that must be done to protect and preserve this natural heritage for tomorrow.

Silver Offering Part of Children's Service

During children's church the silver offering is part of the services. The church is a scaled-down version of the regular church service. It is held for the children in the age group that wouldn't enjoy the adult service. Here an usher takes the silver offering from part of the group. (Staff photo-engraving) and get much satisfaction out of the program. The program makes the children feel they are important and leads them to look forward to the special service throughout the week.

"This is one of the biggest advantages," he points out. "The children are taught that church is something to look forward to. This service is planned on their level and holds their attention. In the main church service they have no role. In this one they have leading roles."

The service starts with a prayer, which is led by one of the children. The prayers are of their own composition. The Rev. Mr. Acker explains that the children are encouraged to develop their own thoughts concerning prayer.

He laughs and adds that the children come up with some rather original thoughts.

Several songs follow, led by a child from the group, then church announcements are made. The announcements concern upcoming church events throughout the week. They are made by the chil*dren.*

There is another song and then ushers for the day take the silver offering. There is another song and then the sermonette. This is a Bible story that deals with favorite stories from both the old and the new testaments. This takes the place of the conventional sermon, and the stories vary from the Sunday school stories, so there is no repetition in case the children attended Sunday school earlier.

In addition to getting the children's interest, the Rev. Mr. Acker points out that the special service has the interest of the parents, too.

Parents of the children in this age group are encouraged to come to the regular service and enjoy it more.

The program is operated by a committee of eight women members of the church. Each week two of the women take charge of the service. One of the two women is Rivera the sermonette.

Field Trial Judge Poses With Dog

Evan Everton poses here with one of his pointers. Everton is an experienced field trial judge and has judged throughout the western states. He recently returned from Hawaii, where he judged several field trials. In addition to serving as a judge, Everton is a seasoned competitor. (Staff photo-engraving)

T.F. Man Returns Home After Judging Field Trials at Three Hawaiian Clubs

A Twin Falls man has returned from the Hawaiian islands, where e was invited to judge pointing g field trials at three different ubs on the islands. He is Rulon verton, who has been a competi- r and a judge in field trials roughout the Northwest for any years.

Everton spent most of February the islands. He judged the three ld trials on consecutive week- ds. The first was at the Hono- a Field Trial club. The second s the Haleiwa Field Trial club, d the last trial was the Hawaii en Field Trial on the immense ter ranch.

Many of the field trials had good ndance. Everton notes that on s occasion they had a 45-person ser.

He has judged many field trials d seen all kinds of country. He nsiders the terrain on the Park- ranch the very best in the ited States for pheasant field als.

He explains there are few fences on the ranch. For example, the last field trial was held in an unfenced area consisting of 20,000 acres. He says the grass is so thick the birds don't run and they stay to point much better than in any other area he has seen. The humidity is high, so scenting conditions are excellent. There is an abundance of both pheasants and small Japanese quail, and to top off these features the ranch has a plentiful supply of well-trained horses for gallery members.

Everton says bird hunting throughout the islands is very good, especially on the Parker ranch. He says the ranch is currently reorganizing a private hunting club. But the membership and initiation fee of $25,000 is rather restrictive.

Everton has long been a devotee of the field trial dog, a dog that he notes is a rather specialized breed. He explains that the field trial dog compares to the regular gun dog somewhat like the thoroughbred compares to the regular saddle horse.

He points out that the dogs are bred for such qualities as speed, endurance, nose and intelligence. All of these fine points can be passed on to regular gun dogs. Those who raise these specialized dogs also contribute to better hunting dogs.

In addition to judging, Everton has made his mark in the competitive field. He is the only man in region nine to have won two regional championship trophies. He won in 1949 and 1953.

Club Meets

The Teen-Age Tops club met Wednesday at the Baptist church basement with 11 members present.

It was reported that nine pounds were lost and three and a half pounds were gained by members during the week. Visitors included Mrs. Doris Flinn and Sharron Herrett.

Plans Noted For New Jail In Minidoka

RUPERT, March 18—Minidoka county commissioners announced plans this week to call on county residents to finance the construction of new jail facilities. Either a bond issue or a special tax levy will be asked by the board for the project, according to Willard Hayward, county clerk.

A proposal made by the commissioners last year to set up a building fund for the jail was defeated by voters. If passed, the proposal would have taken care of the new building project and some needed remodeling of the present courthouse, commissioners said.

Present plans are to construct living quarters over the garage building located in the rear of the courthouse, and for the present jail section to be converted for other use.

Commissioners pointed out that at present there are no facilities suitable for holding juveniles, and that when necessary to hold young people in jail, the county has had to take the prisoners to Burley, since they cannot be held in the same quarters with adult prisoners.

A proposal made by Dale Barner and Mervin Ling, representing the airport committee of the Rupert Chamber of Commerce, asking the commissioners to call for a bond election to finance an airport was turned down by the board. Members of the board said that they felt the construction of a new jail was more important at this time.

Local Couple Prepares Recording Session

Mr. and Mrs. J. Hill prepare for a recording session. Hill started making commercial recordings of religious music in 1959. He has sold these for the past two years. Now he is entering the popular music business and has started a company called the Magic Valley Recording company. The music will be tape recorded and processed at Factory Radio. (Staff photo-engraving)

Need for Religious Music Recordings Opens New Business Field for J. Hill

J. Hill, a Twin Falls man who has amazed local residents with his imagination and resourcefulness, has started a new project that is the first of its kind in this area. He has started a music recording business.

Hill has played the organ since 1936 and has played the piano since he was 5 years old. In 1937 he was the first Twin Falls resident to own an electronic organ.

In the intervening years he has played at practically any function in the valley that required music.

Hill's interest and involvement in the business started in the summer of 1959 when he discovered there was a need for uninterrupted music for mortuaries and memorial parks. Religious music is available for such playing, but albums often have certain selections included that aren't appropriate. What was needed was a recording or tape recording that would play only selections that were appropriate for the purpose. Hill decided to fill the need. He discussed the idea with James Reynolds, who encouraged him and let him use his chapel for recording purposes.

Fate seemed to be on Hill's side. The evening before he planned to record the music in the chapel an old friend dropped by to see him. The man, Wayne Kenworthy, formerly of Hansen, is now a sound engineer for the National Broadcasting company in Hollywood. Kenworthy liked the idea and volunteered his services at the recording session the following day.

They made a 30-minute recording of religious music. The music then was played for Mr. and Mrs. Bill Reiher. Reiher is the owner of Factory Radio Television center. The couple encouraged Hill and told him he should record more of the music. So Hill, Mrs. Hill and Kenworthy went back to work and recorded a total of two hours of religious music. They selected 40 minutes of the music and had a recording company in Hollywood make a metal master recording.

The company makes the long playing records on contract for the Hills. It proved to be a successful venture. They have advertised the records in trade publications and now have sold records in 34 of the 50 states. They are in the process of getting a personal touch with every mortuary and memorial park in the country. They sell both records and tape recordings. The tape recordings are made by Reiher.

The current interest in organ music, which Hill attributes to high fidelity and stereophonic sound, has led the couple into another venture. They are entering the popular recording business.

Hill says starting a business in Twin Falls is difficult.

"We didn't have any connection with the big boys, but we feel if you put out a good job people will buy your recordings. It's worth a try."

"I've certainly received a lot of encouragement from Bill Reiher, and I'd probably have quit a long time ago if it wasn't for him."

Mrs. Hill serves as his engineer and they now are recording popular tunes in the sound studio at White Music center. The copies of the original tapes will be made by Reiher.

Hill feels there is a definite market for the tapes because of the interest in organ music and the lack of organ recordings, compared to other types of music.

They have finished a 30-minute master tape of 28 selections of old standards — songs such as "St. Louis Blues," "The Moon of Manakoora," "Ace In the Hole" and "Peg O' My Heart."

Hill believes the collections of old standards — along with some specialized tape albums he intends to make in the future — will prove popular with both private individuals and companies that have tape recorders.

Italians Think McLemores Neglecting Daughter at Play

By HENRY McLEMORE

ROME, Italy—I am now being escorted out in Rome's gayest social fashion and Mary as a matter of fact, I don't understand why one doesn't accompany me.

We drive disapproving glances, looks of disgust, and Megan looks as if she'll die of embarrassment.

It wouldn't surprise me to receive a letter from Emily Post on some such subject as proper behavior at the Rome Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Small Girls who are forced to go to bed at the same hour as their parents.

This is because Rome children are not to bed at 10 o'clock, not to play, not to promenade. Parks are looked upon as playgrounds in which children are permitted to display. They are dressed in their better than Sunday best and are stiffened, starched and shined.

The children walk around—unless they are in carriages—like mannequins. I am sure—like mannequins happy. They are allowed to hold a balloon by a string, but not to chase it when it flies away. To chase it would risk falling down, and falling down would get them dirty.

Megan and the other American children, especially the children in the park look like jolly, throughout-the-day-and-night-playing children. The other children, the Italian kids, look like refugees from a rummage sale. Their clothes are rumpled and scuffed. Their jeans faded, and often patched and frayed.

They are allowed to play before facing the rules of the game.

A composition frame held seventy feet above the ground is the first piece of equipment encountered in the park. Megan and I counted 10 children on the frame at one time. Each child was required to get down to earth and get dirty, before he could start up again.

Benches, shovels, spoons, sieves—in fact, a depressing paraphernalia of implements with which children are supposed to dig in dirt and fetch over, if a tree is provided for one—was on Thursday climbable it is climbed, and if unprovided all the resource needed for the climbing of a wall is footholds, they fall off it. The manner in which the Italian mothers and fathers stand around with looks of disapproval on their faces. What sort of people are these Americans, anyway, to allow their children to play? Don't they know that children are made to look as untidy and to take such chances in trees, on walls and on, on, on, as possible? Automobile safety and over marble ruins? You can bet your life the questioners on their faces. Just as all of these, the parks are infinitely more beautiful and are loaded with fountains and, if there is one thing an American child dotes on it's a fountain.

As a result there was a slight and lessening in speculative fever and all of it wet and ready to be a return to the "quality" issues or there's clear evidence of interest in sensitive to the economy. This was reflected and in the sharp rally in the Dow-Jones industrial average which rose 12.92 points to 676.48—only around nine points

Megan gets soaked every time she goes to the park, and the Italian mothers simply can't bear to look at her. The other day she found a fountain that was not turned off and she went in it. I couldn't look, what amounted to a shower.

This was too much for one little Italian gentleman to bear. He brought down his full weight on the head of the run, and made it plain to me that my little girl was not long for this world unless I took better care of her.

To make matters worse, Megan was splashing water on half a dozen Italian children who had followed her in gay mischief even. They were snatched away by their guardians as if Megan had been spraying the group with a tommy-gun.

Italian children don't fight, either. I need not tell you that American children do. When a couple of American boys hit each other in a loving embrace, the Italians gather as if Dempsey and Firpo were at it. This primeval settlement of an argument brings them on the run.

I can't wait to see the Italians when summer comes, and the American kids, wearing little or nothing, really come to life and turn the park upside down.

Bull Pauses, Races Again For Record

NEW YORK, March 18 (AP)—Bull pauses, then races again.

That's the way it's been in the stock market for the past week or so.

Wednesday, bad signs here and there speeded the generally downward movement.

The best news of all was that a six-month unbroken skid in industrial production was halted in January.

Important cheer came from auto makers who reported a decided pickup in car sales in the first two weeks of March, compared with plans for sharply increased production.

Steel and other fuel for optimism sent the stock market booming ahead again after what some observers called an ominous pause last week.

Still, manifestations of confidence are rumored to be a tonic for brokers all the way around.

Trade at United States exchanges has been four million shares or more three times since July, 1959, the federal reserve board reported.

Encouraging word developed on some retail sales, electricity production and housing starts. In steel, production is down significantly but the order flow was better.

The number of idle men and compensation dipped—a hopeful straw despite concern that March figures would show another rise in jobless.

In Washington, congress acted to help those who are out of work and have exhausted jobless pay benefits, moving in a way calculated to boost the economy at the grass roots.

Enactment of the administration's emergency jobless pay program was virtually assured. This would provide 13 weeks of benefits totaling $1,200 to workers exhausting regular state benefits.

A dip in wage and salary payments and dividends other than in the latter category combined in the worst direction was railroad carloadings, off 1.7 per cent from the preceding week and 12 per cent from the comparable week a year ago.

Underscoring the gravity of the unemployment problem were 5.7 million, the number determined and reported four months ago to be idle—and one of every six retail workers.

But on balance experts agreed to support a middle-of-the-roader on mark by Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges that "we're hit bottom and are beginning to turn around."

Hodges gave his views several days before the mean upturn of prices and encouragement expected by relief trade figures and the construction inventory shrinkage had about reached its limits.

Also as Hodges spoke, a big New York bank — the Morgan Guaranty Trust company — said that economic clouds appeared to be lifting and the business contraction to be at or near its bottom.

Retail auto sales, at 15,717 a day in the first third of March, represented a 4.3 per cent improvement over the February pace. Ford and Rambler sales were especially brisk.

Ford promptly announced a 25 per cent increase in April-June production plans, representing about 85,000 additional vehicles. Chrysler corporation and Studebaker decided earlier to step up March assemblies.

This raised hopes of more orders for steel mills and a quickening of business in the rubber, glass, plastics and accessory fields.

The federal reserve board reported gains in industrial production situation.

At 192 per cent of the 1957 average the output of mines, mills and factories was $10 below the record level of January, 1960—111 per cent of 1957. But it held steady on the plane of January, 1961.

Volume on the New York Stock Exchange was 26,401,491 shares compared with 29,026,120 the week before.

Bond volume fell to $38,944,000 par value from $48,043,000 last week—a 15-year high.

Briefly around the business scene:

The first in threatened damage suits against electrical equipment makers "convicted" of price-fixing was filed in Los Angeles by Edison and TVA, asking a total of 12 million dollars from General Electric and four other firms.

Statistical Support Backing Business Upturn Prophets

NEW YORK, March 18 (AP)—Some weighty statistical support gathered this week behind prophets of business upturn and marked optimism in brokerage offices.

However, bad signs here and there speeded the generally downward movement.

The best news of all was that a six-month unbroken skid in industrial production was halted in January.

Soybeans up While Other Grains Drop

CHICAGO, March 18 (AP)—Soybeans advanced under non-found encouragement this week, but other grain futures on the Chicago board of trade were lower.

Compared with last Friday, wheat was off 1¼ to 2¼, corn off by to two cents off 1¼ to 1¾, oats off ¼ to ¾ cent and barley off ¼ to up 5, and drummed lard off 15 to up five points.

Soybeans remained sensitive to trade news and prices swung widely. Old crop months found strength, however, in higher meal and oil prices and export sales.

Wheat values declined as harvest hes developed once the rapid drop from more than 25 early this month. Other bullish influences included reports of shipments ances at 18 million bushels more than last year and reports of extremely sparse country selling of wheat.

Wheat futures declined sharply under long liquidation. Good moisture in the Southwest brought rains at crucial times of the season. Export sales were reported light overseas business was generally slow.

Red cash wheat had a good mill demand. Interest was light, however, in hard and yellow wheat. Spot prices were about a half-cent lower.

Feed grain traders expressed confusion over progress of new legislation in Washington. Corn fell sharply late in the week when a statement developed on the bill. Oats followed the decline.

Rye futures plunged up to six cents on active liquidation and profit-taking. Winnipeg prices were also heavy.

Drummed lard trading was also active and irregular. Prices fell when soybean oil turned lower and rallied with oil later in the week.

The government based its first report on 1961 acreage intentions yesterday. Based on reports from farmers on March 1, the USDA estimated corn acreage at 82,405,000, compared with 82,906,000 in 1960. Soybeans were estimated at 20,426,000 acres against 24,270,000 a year ago.

These Twin Falls women, both active local artists, have placed a display of their paintings at the Twin Falls American Legion building auxiliary room. Artists are Mrs. Leonard Young, left, and Mrs. N. A. Henkelman. The display will continue indefinitely and will be changed every few weeks. The building is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Both artists are members of the Art Guild of Magic Valley and the Idaho Art association. (Staff photo-engraving)

Oil Paintings by 2 Twin Falls Women Being Exhibited at Legion Hall Here

Recently two Twin Falls artists finished putting up a new art display in the auxiliary room of the American Legion hall. The paintings are by Mrs. N. A. Henkelman and Mrs. Leonard Young.

The paintings will be on display indefinitely and be changed every few weeks. The building is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Each artist will exhibit three or four oil paintings in the room. Mrs. Young—who signs her paintings "Mark Young"—will display an interior scene in a San Francisco market, a lumber mill near San Luis Obispo, Calif., a portrait and a landscape of Redfish lake.

Mrs. Henkelman will display three oil paintings. There will be two conventional landscapes of Redfish lake and a surrealistic country landscape.

Mrs. Henkelman is president of the Art Guild of Magic Valley, Idaho Art association.

Mrs. Young has lived in Magic Valley for three years. Her main interests are portraits and religious subjects.

She has studied art at the California College of Arts and Crafts at Oakland and at Chinnards in Los Angeles. She has been painting for about 20 years.

Mrs. Young has had showings of her work at Yuma, Ariz., and at San Luis Obispo, Calif. Some of her paintings were shown at the Twin Falls art mart, during the summer months.

Comparing the Magic Valley area with other areas in which she has lived, Mrs. Young notes that she thinks this is one of the most interesting places a person interested in art could live.

She explains that, since she is interested in portraits, she has been impressed with the number of interesting faces an artist can find among area persons. She says this is because of the number of persons here that have character revealed in their faces.

Mrs. Young also teaches children's classes in oils and sculpture at the Harry Barry park building. She is a member of the Art Guild of Magic Valley and the Idaho Art association.

United Nations Passing Through Most Critical Period in 16 Years of Existence

an adverse U.N. vote seem a minor matter."

And Stevenson was quoted by the New Yorker magazine as saying in an interview: "No longer can we take majority votes for granted. I wonder sometimes what will happen to public opinion in our country when we begin to lose votes and decisions go against us now and then."

Much of this can be explained by two developments.

One is the crisis in the Congo.

The other is the fact the African-Asian nations now represent the largest single group in the United Nations. So far, they have not voted as a bloc. But as Stevenson said, "many are neutralists and want no part of the cold war."

The familiar problems—disarmament, Laos, Hungary, Tibet, the question of astructural reorganization, the seating of Red China—would be towering menacingly over the United Nations today, even without the newer problem of the Congo.

But these issues have become dangerously aggravated by the strife in Africa. The Congo is now the scene of the latest collision between East and West.

The communist bloc used the Congo as the club with which to batter Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold. They demanded he step down.

Later, they said they were boycotting him. And they have refused to pay their allotted share of the cost of the U.N. operation in the Congo.

The prevailing view of many U. N. delegates is that Hammarskjold would receive overwhelming support, if the Soviet bloc should bring the issue to a test.

Meanwhile, the U. N. prestige is at stake because of another action in the Congo—the security council resolution authorizing U. N. troops to use force, if necessary, to maintain order.

The head of an Asian delegation said of this: "If the security council resolution is defied, it would be fatal to the U.N. Who will take the U.N. seriously? It would sink to the impotent status of the old League of Nations."

The admission of a group of new African nations, and the voting strength of the African-Asian countries, may radically alter the U.N. position on another fearful issue, Red China.

For 10 years, the United States has succeeded in keeping even the discussion of seating the Chinese communists off the agenda.

But the support for this moratorium has been declining steadily over the years.

In 1952, the American proposal to table discussion of the question was backed by an 85 per cent vote. Each year since then it dropped a few percentage points until, last year, the proposal was approved by only 56 per cent.

Now there is a mounting belief the problem no longer can be postponed.

An African delegate said "I think we should at least have the opportunity to discuss it. It is not a question, necessarily, of whether you vote to seat the communist Chinese. But at least it should be aired."

Last Feb. 9, Britain's Foreign Secretary, Lord Home, went further. While pointing to the objections to admitting Red China, he said, "All that is true, but the facts of international life require that communist China should be seated in the U. N."

American diplomats, noting the shifts of sentiment, are pondering what strategy to adopt now. There is no disposition to soften the U. S. position. But some officials question whether it is wise to keep the subject off the agenda any longer.

Referendum Scheduled on New Conservation District

CASTLEFORD, March 18—The Idaho soil conservation commission, Boise, has scheduled a referendum on the formation of a new soil conservation district in the west end of Twin Falls county.

The referendum is scheduled for Tuesday. Polling places are the Methodist church, Castleford, and Laverne Grange, Buhl. Voting hours are between noon and 8 p.m.

The area involves more than 500 farms and thousands of acres, including new lands in the Blue Gulch and Magic Water company areas.

All legal voters, farmers or otherwise, can vote in the referendum.

The new soil district, if 51 per cent of the eligible voters approve, will be called Castleford or Balanced Rock soil conservation district.

To be granted permission to hold this referendum, there was a petition signed and a hearing held indicating that many landowners wanted to enter into a memorandum of agreement with the soil conservation service to obtain technical assistance on land and water problems. If approved, a board of supervisors, all farmers, will direct activities of the district.

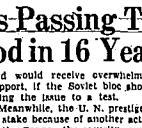

The Castleford-Men's club-favors the proposed formation of the district and it is largely through its efforts that a petition and a hearing with the Idaho soil conservation commission have been obtained.
